JURY FOR JUVENILE HOME

Long Beach Rancher to Attend Harding Agricultural Parley

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Bernard M. Maruch, New York financier, Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, and Edwin T. Meredith, Des Moines, former secretary of agriculture, today accepted invitations to the agricultural conference called for January 23, by President Harding.

Others included in the supplemental list of acceptances announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today follow: C. C. Spence, Oregon City, Ore.; Asbury F. Lever, Washington; F. A. Reid, Phoenix, Ariz.; Fred Bixby, Long Beach, Cal.; E. E. Faville, Spokane, Wash.

Inquisitors Rap Present Plan of Caring for Delinquents, Dependents

URGE LOAD LAW BE STRICTLY ENFORCED

Economics Recommended In Administration of City, County Affairs

Scoring the system of caring for delinquent and dependent children in Orange county and recommending the establishment of a county parental school at the county farm; calling for economies in city and county administration; urging strict enforcement of the load limits ordinance and urging that systems of book-keeping in cities be modeled after that obtaining at Fullerton, the county grand jury's report was made public today.

The findings of the inquisitorial body named to investigate the conduct of affairs in the county as they obtained in 1920-21 were submitted to Superior Judge Z. B. West shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Highlights contained in the report, in addition to those outlined in the foregoing, were:

1. A recommendation that in view of the fact that traveling entertainments are required to pay licenses to municipalities when they exhibit therein, the board of supervisors pass an ordinance requiring such shows to pay a county license.

2. A statement that the jury found the Bristol street settling tank of the city of Santa Ana, as operated at present, to constitute a public nuisance and a recommendation that proper steps be taken by the city to "make such disposal of the sewage water and solids that the nuisance may be abated."

3. Announcement by the jury of its conviction that a public nuisance exists from year to year in the diverting of water from the Santa Ana Sugar company's factory into the Delhi drainage ditch and recommendation that this company be restrained from turning its water from the factory into any open ditch.

Acting on instructions of Judge West, it was stated today, the present grand jury went more thoroughly into several investigations than any previous jury had ever gone before. Among these investigations were those pertaining to the funds of various incorporated cities in the county. Such funds, it was said, had never been so thoroughly investigated as they were at the hands of the present inquisitors.

The various investigators were made in an unusually thoroughgoing manner, it was pointed out, services of employed experts in this respect having been resorted to more freely than perhaps ever before in the history of the county. The jury employed Albin E. Johnson, of the Steed-Johnson company, certified public accountants of Santa Ana and Los Angeles, to assist in expending the hundreds of city and county books. His work has been highly commended by the jury foreman, E. B. Collier.

The jury found on checking up receipts and disbursements of the county of Orange that the records were "exceptionally and accurately kept."

Girl Hiker Here Shows Seat Of Learning Develops Brawn

The hiking costume worn by Nell Walker, who had passed Santa Ana today in her travels afoot from coast to coast was well justified by her mileage, as she reported it here late yesterday.

Although she claims Boston as her home, Nell Walker upsets the traditional western impressions of effeminacy connected with the hub city of learning, where brawn is popularly supposed to have long ago entered a decline.

Nell Walker is a modern Amazon in stature and has walked 5,000 miles since she left Boston last summer. Moreover she "picks" the largest and ugliest looking six shooter and the Officer Declares Orders Required Public Be Notified of Hangings In A. E. F. Camps.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—When American soldiers were hanged in France the orders required that French officials and people be notified and allowed to attend, Col. Samuel V. Hamm told the senate investigating committee today.

Hamm said he directed the hangings at Is-Sur-Tille, France, on orders from General Pershing, who may be called before the committee.

The hangings, Hamm said, were witnessed by about 500 American soldiers, picked from various companies and marched to the scene in squads.

Hamm said it would have been impossible for illegal hangings and lynchings to have occurred at Is-Sur-Tille, as charged by doughboy witnesses. Any such occurrence would have been immediately reported to him, he declared.

Two Jailed In Death of Man Attacked Here

At a coroner's inquest, scheduled for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, official action is expected in connection with the death of Jose Morano, 20, who died at the county hospital as the result of a beating alleged to have been received in this city New Year's night. Aurelio Garcia and Francisco Laguna today were held in connection with the man's death. They were apprehended on Lincoln street at 5 p. m. yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs O. K. Carr and Charles Carrillo.

The assault upon Morano was said to have been made while he was walking with a friend on Lincoln street. He refused to drink with the men, who accosted him, according to sheriff's deputies, and was brutally assaulted. It was alleged that he was beaten and kicked into insensibility. District Attorney A. P. Nelson will assist Coroner C. D. Brown in conducting the inquest.

Attorneys Plan to Speed Trial Of Movie Star

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Rumors of radical changes in the scope of the evidence to be submitted at the second trial of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe were in circulation today previous to the opening of court.

Neither defense nor prosecution attorneys would commit themselves. It was understood on good authority, however, that much of the technical, medical evidence introduced by the state at the first trial will be omitted, and that the defense will produce several witnesses who have not heretofore figured in the case.

COVERED BY GUN RANCH WOMAN SEES ROBBER LOOT HOME

The daring holdup of Mrs. W. T. Long by an unknown Mexican at her home at Costa Mesa early today had caused a search to be instituted by Sheriff C. E. Jackson for the man, who ransacked the Long residence, but failed to find valuable articles.

The only article taken from the home was one cold pancake, which the robber evidently ate while in the house.

It was the remnant of breakfast left on the table by Mrs. Long when she accompanied her husband into the yard before daylight as he started for his work in his automobile.

After seeing him started, Mrs. Long, carrying a lantern, re-entered the house by the rear door. The Mexican, who had apparently slipped into the house, while she was in the yard, appeared in a rear bedroom doorway, which opened upon the screen porch.

Threatens Violent Death
Covering her with a revolver, he ordered her to stand in a corner and remain quietly under a threat of having her brains blown out, according to the report to the sheriff.

The man then re-entered the bedroom, overturned the bed, scattering the mattress and bedclothing, but failing to disturb a revolver, which was under the head of the bed.

Passing into another bedroom, the bandit repeated the performance, apparently searching for money. In the other rooms of the house, he continued his search, turning the interior of the house topsy-turvy. The cloth covers were ripped from the bottoms of the chairs but nothing was found.

At intervals he returned to the screen porch to see that Mrs. Long had not moved from her position. Each time he repeated his threats to "blow out her brains" if she made a move.

Thus closely watched, Mrs. Long dared not attempt to reach the revolver in the adjoining bedroom. When he had completed his fruitless search, the Mexican returned to the screen porch and after advising Mrs. Long to make no attempt to follow him as he would be watching the house, he stepped outside and disappeared in the darkness.

Mrs. Long could not tell which direction the man took, or whether he had accomplices on the outside.

"30" BULLETINS

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Georges Garpentier tonight knocked out George Cook of Australia in the fourth round of their bout at Albert Hall. The battle was scheduled to have gone twelve rounds.

MANILA, Jan. 12.—President Quezon of the Philippine senate resigned his office last night. Ill health was given as the reason.

Judge J. W. Shirley, of Huntington Beach, was returned to that city in the county ambulance today from the county hospital, where he has been for treatment for some time. Nearly blind, and suffering from mental lapses, it is said, he determined to leave the county institution last afternoon, and while the ambulance was being prepared, he left the hospital and started out to walk. He was picked up later and became violent. Patrolman Manrieff accompanied the aged man to Huntington Beach.

MASONS AT FULLERTON CONDUCT INSTALLATION

(Special to The Register)
FULLERTON, Jan. 12.—With the completion of installation ceremonies conducted by Companion Stanley C. Chapman, of Royal Arca chapter, Master Masons here today were looking forward to a year of unusual activity under the leadership of the new officers. Officers were installed as follows:

Robert J. McKee, high priest; H. C. Woodard, king; Hobart Murphy, scribe; Emanuel Smith, treasurer; E. A. Rhynolds, secretary; John H. Peters, chaplain; E. B. Double, captain of the host; J. B. McLaughlin, M. A. C.; Archie McCormick, royal arch captain; W. J. Robinson, musician; W. P. Rogers, master of third veil; H. C. McMaisters, master of second veil; F. P. Willett, master of first veil; A. E. Griffin, sentinel.

Bootleg Booze Death Toll Totals 103 Since Jan 1st

United Press Leased Wire
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Poison booze has killed 103 persons in the United States since January 1.

United Press dispatches from all parts of the country revealed this amazing total today.

Deaths are continuing. Two persons died in the New York area during the last twenty-four hours.

The fatalities have occurred at the average rate of more than eight a day since the poison booze flood was poured on the market.

"Many persons are selling wood alcohol, apparently indifferent to the results," Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health officer of the city of New York, said today. "We have been conducting an investigation of this and find there is much wood alcohol available."

LEMON ASSOCIATION PLANS TO INCREASE CAPITAL FIVE-FOLD

As a contribution to a fund necessary to the establishment of an insectary in Orange county, members of the Central Lemon Growers' association at meeting held today in the packing house at Villa Park, voted unanimously to permit a retain of one-quarter of a cent a box on citrus fruits handled by the association, this accumulation to accrue to the insectary fund, provided that other citrus packing associations in the county make similar provision.

C. E. Litt of Tustin presented a resume of plans to date for the establishment of an insectary in this county. The proposal to increase the capital stock of the association from $50,000 to $250,000 was given consideration, the matter going over for decision until 2:30 p. m. Jan. 27, when definite action will be taken. Another proposed change in the by-laws concerned the establishment of a revolving fund.

Board of directors consisting of J. A. Maag, E. Sula, W. M. Popplewell, L. O. Whittell and G. Williamson was retained. Reports submitted showed that 33,254 old boxes of lemons were picked in 1921, and that 172,212 boxes were packed and sold, the average price at the trees for the year being $2.29 a hundred pounds against $1.542 for the preceding year. The report showed that packing costs for 1921 were 41 cents a box, against 48 1/2 in 1920. Production in 1921 exceeded that for 1916 by 300 per cent, the report stated.

T. H. Powell, lemon sales manager of the California Fruit exchange; L. L. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange; Paul Armstrong, advertising manager of the California Fruit exchange, and W. A. Nixon, field inspector for this district for the California Fruit exchange, addressed the members at the afternoon session of the association.

MILLIONS OF MONEY IS WASTED IN ADVERTISING

That is a startling statement for a newspaper to make, but it is as true as it is important.

In a published interview the other day, J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, brought out the fact that California business men and property owners are robbed of $500,000 annually by fake publications purporting to be issued by this, that or the other railroad company. The combined circulation of these publications, he said, does not exceed 1000 copies—just enough to show advertisers and collect the money. His statements were made on the basis of information obtained by investigations made by the railroads and Chambers of Commerce.

If Mr. Metzgar had said that the advertisers of this state are robbed annually of $5,000,000 by fake and dishonest publications he would have come nearer the truth. For that kind of robbery is not confined to alleged railroad publications, and to community advertising, such as is involved in the investigation referred to by Mr. Metzgar; it is also practiced by many other classes of publications, including some newspapers, and extends to commercial as well as to community advertising.

Until quite recently, merchants have been almost entirely at the mercy of unscrupulous publishers, of whom, fortunately, there are not many in the newspaper business. There are enough of them, however, to make it absolutely necessary that merchants should KNOW how much and what kind of circulation they are buying. Quality counts as much as quantity, and the territory covered is important.

The vital need and imperative demand for accurate, complete and absolutely reliable information of this kind, a few years ago brought into existence the Audit Bureau of Circulations, the operations of which have now become so extensive and so absolutely reliable that there is no longer any excuse for any merchant to buy an advertising "pig in a poke."

He will not buy sugar or meat without having it weighed; he will not let the dry goods men guess at or arbitrarily determine the size of the piece of goods that he buys; he makes even his banker count the money he receives for his check; and he wants to know the quality of the meat, the sugar, the goods, and the banker must guarantee that the money is not counterfeit or depreciated.

And so, now that a standard of measurement and a test of quality is available merchants and business men are almost universally demanding a show-down in the matter of quantity and quality of circulation of the mediums in which they advertise.

Which is as it should be. No honest publisher will resent such a demand. It is no reflection upon his integrity. We have bank examiners, sealers of weights and measures and the Audit Bureau of Circulations, and all business men who do business on the square will willingly submit to the most rigid examinations.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations is a national organization, and its traveling auditor comes into a newspaper office without warning. He checks the amount of paper consumed, the cash receipts from circulation, the carriers' route books, the amount of postage paid on second class matter, freight bills for print paper, circulation ledgers and subscription books, press-room reports, every possible kind of record and source of information as to circulation.

In his process of elimination and pruning, he even goes so far as to cut out of "paid circulation" all subscribers who are more than six months in arrears with their payments, on the theory that a subscriber who doesn't keep his subscription paid up is of little value to the advertisers—one element of the quality test.

The subscription list is segregated and classified, so that the A. B. C. report shows the advertiser just where every paper goes and how it is delivered to the subscriber. In short the count and tests are absolutely accurate and final for the advertiser, and pitiless to the publisher. But they are, or should be, also a protection to the publisher, in that they place him on the pedestal with Caesar's wife—above suspicion.

All Register advertisers are invited to call at any time and examine our books and records, including the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

CLASH OVER NEW ALLIANCE WITH BRITISH ENDS IN DOWNFALL

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Premier Aristide Briand resigned today and Raymond Poincaré, former president of France, is being considered as his successor.

Leon Bourgeois, leading French pacifist, and Raoul Peret, president of the chamber of deputies, recommended to President Millerand that Poincaré be named.

President Millerand accepted the resignation of Briand, which was tendered immediately after the premier left the chamber of deputies, where he defended his policies at Cannes.

Briand informed the press that the French delegates to Cannes were required to return to Paris because of this step.

The resignation of himself and his cabinet would not interfere with the proposed international economic conference at Genoa, Briand declared.

Asked for the reason for his resignation, Briand said:

"I needed better support if I were to continue."

Severe criticism of Briand's agreeing to meet the Russians at Genoa next March and of his agreement with Lloyd George as to the terms of an Anglo-French alliance were the causes of Briand's downfall.

After a long plea for the moral support of the chamber, Briand ended his speech with words clearly indicating his disgust at the attitude adopted by his opponents, and he and the members of his cabinet walked out of the chamber.

Deputies Amazed.
The deputies were amazed by this move and there was uncertainty as to whether Briand was resigning because of hostility among the various groups in the French parliament, or because of dissensions within his cabinet.

In his speech to the deputies, preceding his resignation, Briand stated that the question of German reparations could not be discussed at the Genoa conference at which he said the participants must accept the guarantees France obtained at Versailles, and furthermore engage to respect the frontiers of their neighbors.

Poincaré Leads Attack.
Former President Poincaré led the attacks against the Briand ministry which resulted in today's resignation. It was the attitude of Poincaré and other leaders with military views which brought about the critical situation which forced Briand to return from Cannes.

The French cabinet, which followed Premier Briand from the chamber of deputies today, signifying its resignation, was formed by Briand January 17, 1921. It included the following ministers:

Justice, Bennevay; interior, Merland; war, Bathou; marine, Guis-tan; finance, Doumer (who twice offered his resignation and was succeeded finally by Loucheur); instruction, Berard; commerce, Dir; agriculture, Duprey; labor, Vincent; pensions, Magnot; public works, Le Troquer; liberated regions, Loucheur.

RESIGNATION SURPRISE TO CONFERENCE ENVOYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Premier Briand's resignation will not affect commitments in the arms conference.

M. Sarraut of the French delegation here gave this assurance today, following receipt of news of retirement of Briand and his cabinet.

The resignation of Briand and his cabinet caused a sensation in the arms conference circles.

Speculation immediately followed as to what effect the action would have on the French policies at the conference. Word of the action was sent by the United Press to M. Sarraut, minister of colonies, in the French cabinet, who was attending the secret session of the big five on the naval treaty.

FRENCH DELEGATION TO LEAVES CANNES PARLEY

CANNES, Jan. 12.—The French delegation to the supreme council conference here as a result of the resignation of Premier Briand and his cabinet.

M. Loucheur, finance minister, left tonight. This resignation was included with those of the cabinet, which Briand presented to President Millerand at Paris.

The departure of the French means the virtual end of the supreme council conference, in the opinion of the French press.

"Germany will go bankrupt if she is required to pay 720,000,000 marks to the allies this year," Herr Rathenau, head of the German delegation, told the supreme council in a lengthy speech here today.

Verdict In Burch Case By Saturday Night Now Possible Claim

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Arthur C. Burch, on trial for the murder of John Belton Kennedy, may know his fate by Saturday. By stipulation of both sides arguments will be concluded late Friday.

Superior Judge Sidney N. Reeve is ready with his instructions. Reading of the instructions will require about two hours, he said.

John J. Sullivan was scheduled to conclude his argument in favor of Burch at the morning session today. He will be followed by Chief Defense Counsel Paul Schenck, who is expected to consume the rest of the day. District Attorney Woolwine will close the arguments with an all-day speech tomorrow.

Falls Across Stove When Overcome By Sudden Illness; Perishes Before Blaze Discovered.

POMONA, Cal., Jan. 12.—Stricken by sudden illness, Mrs. Susan R. Strong, aged resident of this city, fell across a burning gas heater early this morning.

Her clothes caught on fire and she was burned to death before the fire was discovered.

Her husband had gone to work and Mrs. Strong was alone in the house. The fire did little damage to the house.

Far East Envoys Agree to Terms Of Railway Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The Chinese and Japanese delegations have sent their representative governments compromise proposals for settlement of the Shantung railway impasse.

The Chinese and Japanese conferees today agreed that existing concessions for extension of Shantung railway line should be turned over to an international financial group—probably the Chinese consortium.

The Chinese, however, were given the important right of building the Chefoo-Weishai extension. This afternoon the committee was to consider opening of Tsing-Tao to foreigners.

Crippled Troop Ship Rides Out Tempest Safely

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Buffeted by heavy seas, the result of the tempest which swept the coast, the crippled army transport Crooks is slowly nearing New York under her own steam.

During the night the transport St. Michel, speeding to the rescue, and the Crooks encountered heavy seas, as evidenced by fragmentary messages from their captain.

PETTY THIEVES LOOT UNATTENDED MACHINES

Two cases of automobile looting had been reported today to the authorities, a leather overcoat and a car of Hayden Squire, while it was parked before the K. P. hall at Tustin last night, and a black leather music folio being stolen from the car of G. E. Jones, 411 East Chestnut, Santa Ana, while the machine was standing at the Irvine filing station.

Another night prowler had been put to flight today, his capture by the police being narrowly avoided by his alacrity in leaving the premises he had invaded.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, 905 South Ross, telephoned police headquarters last night that a prowler was at his place. Police Officers Combs and Ellis responded to the call. The stranger had made a hasty disappearance just before they arrived.

Increased Yield, Higher Prices Sought to Save Beet Men Here

The sugar beet industry in Orange county is facing failure, and unless some method is devised to produce larger tonnage per acre, and to secure better prices, the enterprise, which is rated third in the county in the amount invested, must be abandoned.

This was brought out at a meeting of the Orange county beet growers, held in the farm bureau office here last night, when the formation of a beet growers' department to co-operate with similar organizations in Ventura and Los Angeles counties, was decided upon as a remedy.

Some startling statements were made by the growers present. An open discussion brought to light the fact that, whereas, when the land in Orange county was first planted with beets fifteen years ago, the average yield was twenty-five tons an acre. It is now but seven.

It was agreed that fixing seven tons an acre as the average yield, at $9 per ton, the price paid by the sugar factories, an acre brought $63. In contrast

WILLIS TO VOTE FOR SENATOR

Republicans Agree to Modify Rule Seating Accused Solon

EXPECT VERDICT BEFORE EVENING

Democrats Give Up Effort to Send Contest Back to Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The senate today agreed to declare vacant the seat of Senator Truman H. Newberry, because of the use of large sums of money in the 1918 senatorial campaign against Henry Ford.

This action was taken when it rejected an amendment to the resolution seating Newberry, offered by Senator Norris, Nebraska, Johnson, California, was absent and not paired. Watson, Georgia, was at first paired but withdrew his pair and did not vote. Shortridge of California voted to seat Newberry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Republican senate leaders today agreed to modify the resolution seating Truman H. Newberry so as to include in it a censure of extravagant use of money in elections.

Senator Spencer, Newberry's manager, accepted the amendment of Senator Willis, Ohio, and modified his resolution seating Newberry to include this proposal. They will concentrate their efforts toward the passage of the resolution as thus modified.

As modified by Spencer, the resolution dismisses Henry Ford's contest of Newberry's election; declares Newberry duly and legally elected; severely condemns and disapproves as excessive the amount spent in Newberry's campaign as "contrary to sound public policy and harmful to the dignity of the state."

Acceptance by Spencer of Willis' proposal made it unnecessary to vote on the Willis amendment.

Democratic senators today finally abandoned the idea of moving to recommit the Newberry case to committee. They decided to have the issue decided on the plain proposition of seating Newberry or declaring his seat vacant.

In a speech just before the voting began, Senator Willis, Ohio, one of the doubtful senators, announced he would vote to seat Newberry.

NIGHT PROWLER FLEES BEFORE POLICE APPEAR

ACCUSED YOUTH ON TRIAL IN AUTO CASE

Declaring that she and Leonard Kelley alighted from the car after it struck a machine in which C. E. Forrester and family were seated, Miss Joy McGlaughly told the court and jury this afternoon that Kelley picked up one of the injured Forrester children, in defense of a charge alleging failure to render aid in a collision. The witness stated that while driving from the scene of the accident, Kelley told her that he was going to Anaheim to secure the services of a doctor, having noticed a doctor's sign there when they passed through that city en route to Santa Ana.

Trial of Leonard Kelley, 24, of Fullerton, charged with failure to render aid after an automobile accident, began today before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams and a jury. The jury hearing the case consisted of R. M. Jackson, J. W. Williams, W. L. Leiby, Mrs. Agnes E. Carroll, Joel Proctor, J. M. Miller, Henry Loptien, W. H. Keiser, Miss Minnie C. Childs, S. E. Andrews and Congdon R. Cook, T. Z. Howard. Witnesses for the state related their versions of an accident at First and Birch streets, Santa Ana, on last September 25, when a National car occupied by Kelley and Miss Joy McGlaughly, of Fullerton, the latter driving, collided with a Ford occupied by the family of C. E. Forrester, Santa Ana.

Kelley was charged with driving on after the collision, refusing a bystander's request to ascertain results of the accident and replying that he was going for a doctor. He was arrested a few minutes after the collision as he was driving his car away from Santa Ana.

Held Youth Made Inquiry
Kelley and his attorneys, Allen and Lyon, of Fullerton, were awaiting an opportunity to present their side of the case. They were expected to content that Kelley did investigate the results of the accident after it occurred and that he alighted from his car.

This much was hinted from questions asked of state's witnesses at the preliminary hearing. A. H. Paterson, one of the first on the scene of the accident after it occurred, testified that he saw Kelley's car but that Kelley was not in it.

Paterson, who later apprehended Kelley, at the northern edge of the city, when the National found difficulty negotiating a corner because of damaged steering gear, was the first witness for the state today. He described the collision and told of pursuing Kelley.

Kelley told him, when apprehended, Paterson said, that he was "going for a doctor."

Predicted Collision, Claim
Other witnesses called by Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley to testify for the state were J. Farney, who had predicted a collision when he saw Kelley and Miss McGlaughly sitting close together in the car as they passed him a block away from the collision point; also Norman Herzog, a companion of Farney, City Motorcycle Officer H. D. Jaynes, who aided Paterson in arresting Kelley.

RAILROADS SEEK LOCAL DATA TO COMBAT TAXES

That the railroads and other public service corporations are making extensive preparations to kill the King tax bill when it comes up for hearing in the United States court is evidenced in Santa Ana today.

Gathering of data for use in the court fight has been started at the courthouse by representatives of J. Harry Scott of San Francisco, whose letter heads show him to be a tax expert for the Santa Fe and Northern Pacific railroads, the California-Oregon Power company and for other corporations.

Scott is having the records gone over for the purpose of taking off a complete list of all of the deeds recorded during the first three days of each month for the entire year previous to March, 1921. Particular attention is being paid to the amount of revenue stamps on each deed, for the federal revenue law requires stamps to be placed on a deed in strict accordance with the transfer figure of the property.

Each piece of property shown in the deeds is then traced into the county assessor's office, where the assessment value is taken off.

With these figures, the tax expert will figure out how much taxes is paid by Orange county property in proportion to its real value.

The work Scott is having done here is being done in every county in the state. The entire purpose of the fight before the federal court is to show that railroads and other public service corporations are being taxed under the King tax bill passed by the last legislature more in proportion to actual value than is the property of the private citizen and corporation.

The state board of equalization is preparing to meet the contention of the opponents of the King tax law. Several weeks ago state representatives were here and made arrangements for what they consider adequate comparisons. A list of 100 pieces of property in the county was selected, and two men, John Cubbon and J. N. Anderson, the latter being the state inheritance tax appraiser for this county, placed appraisements upon these properties. For comparison, against these appraisements the assessed valuation figures of the county assessor have been placed.

STEAL CAR AS OWNER APPEARS IN DOORWAY
Sheriff C. E. Jackson was today asked to search for two young men who were declared to have stolen a Ford roadster from Lee Fogal of Smetlett.

According to a report that Fogal made, the thieves took his car from in front of his house while he was inside at about 7 p. m. yesterday. He found them cranking the car and investigated, appearing at the doorway in time to see them drive away.

In attempting to pursue them with another car that stood in the yard, he found that the thieves had disarranged the mechanism of the remaining car so that it would not operate properly.

SUES WOMAN DOCTOR FOR $16,486 DAMAGES
The Green Marshall company of Los Angeles was plaintiff in a damage suit filed today in superior court to recover $478.80 damages from Charles F. and Nellie A. Stroh. The suit was based on a collision September 10, 1921, when Mrs. Stroh, driving an Oldsmobile between Seal Beach and Westminster, is alleged to have attempted to pass a Moreland truck belonging to the plaintiffs and to have caused the truck to be overturned.

The damage claimed represents the repair bill alleged to have been incurred. Attorney S. B. Kaufman of Santa Ana represents the plaintiff.

SELECT WOMEN AS SALES DAY JUDGES
The following Orange county women have been invited to officiate as judges in the Register's window display contest for the next monthly Santa Ana Sales Day: Mrs. Arthur H. Pease, Orange; Mrs. Clair Head, R. F. D. Anaheim; Mrs. J. P. Hatfield, Tustin; Mrs. Joseph Skidmore, Laguna Beach; Mrs. R. W. Jones, R. F. D. Orange; Mrs. J. E. Parker, Orange; Mrs. Guy Williams, San Juan Capistrano.

The judging will be done on the afternoon before Sales Day, in order that the judges may see the windows before they are disturbed. Only windows displaying goods on special sale will be considered. It is expected that all merchants participating in sales day will present the best display window possible, whether they care to compete for a prize or not. The principal aim of such a contest is to encourage attractive windows generally.

INSTALL NEW HEATING EQUIPMENT AT HOTEL
Steam heat is again radiating through the St. Ann's Inn, after a suspension of the service for about three weeks. George J. Cocking, local plumber, has just completed installation of a new boiler in the basement, made necessary by damage sustained to the old boiler when an attaché of the hotel let the boiler run dry.

supervisors pertaining to special authorizations to draw warrants for expenditures other than in the regular course of business, the inquisitorial body found the proper resolutions appearing in the board's minutes in each instance.

"All warrants representing disbursements of funds were checked in detail against records and found to be properly entered," says the jury's report. "All receipts were similarly accounted for. A few minor errors were found and these have since been corrected."

All receipts and disbursements of the cities of Santa Ana, Fullerton, Anaheim, Orange, Newport Beach, Huntington Beach, Seal Beach, Brea, Stanton and Orange, for the period November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921, were found to have been properly recorded, the report said.

As to systems of municipal bookkeeping, the grand jury stated in part:

Urge Double Entry Plan
"In order that revenues and expenses can be properly accounted for and the necessary information regarding operations of the cities and the condition of the assets and liabilities can be secured and readily proven, we feel that it is necessary and vital that double entry bookkeeping be installed and maintained."

"The city of Fullerton, a few years ago, installed a system of accounts, which, in our opinion, should be duplicated in form in all other cities of the county, the smaller cities, of course, in less degree but incorporating the same principles."

Dirt roads in the county were found in general to be in good condition, the report said. It was urged upon county officials that close attention be given by them to working the dirt roads as soon after the rains as possible.

Regarding paved roads, the jury urged that hereafter the county continue to profit by whatever mistakes have been made in the past. Continuous vigilance in watching the things that the jury believes tend to weaken concrete was recommended. It was set forth that every effort should be used to give perfect drainage, "for," the report stated, "we are satisfied that many roadbeds have been softened by seepage." Close attention should be given to the edges of pavements, the jury urged.

Bridges to be Repaired
"We found bridges needing repairs," the jurors stated, "and are informed by the supervisors that they are aware of the conditions and have taken steps to remedy them."

The policy of the supervisors keeping themselves in close touch with the men having charge of road work in their various jurisdictions was deemed advisable. Municipalities came in for a rap, so far as concerns dirt streets, when the report stated that such thoroughfares were found "to be in very poor condition." The jury urged that city officials give particular attention after each rain to working their city streets.

"We protest" against any policy that any city streets may have of allowing dirt to remain in bad condition with the hope that the condition of the street may result in property owners taking action toward paving," the report set forth.

Putting in a strong word for the protection of the county's paved highways from overloaded trucks, the jury urged the strictest enforcement of the county's load limiting ordinance. It also commended the supervisors for its activity in passing this ordinance.

Schools' Condition O. K.
Concerning schools, it was stated that these institutions in the county, taken as a whole, seem to be in fairly good condition, considering the amount of money available for such purposes.

It was stated that as a result of conferences that the jury held with the board of supervisors, an agreement was reached whereby the supervisors will institute a new and adequate system of looking after the county garage. The garage has outgrown the old methods of handling its business, it was set forth, and the belief was expressed that a new method of management under closer supervision by the board will result in giving the taxpayers more safeguards than has hitherto been possible and will result in better service for the county departments using the garage.

The county was commended for the way in which it operates the county farm and hospital.

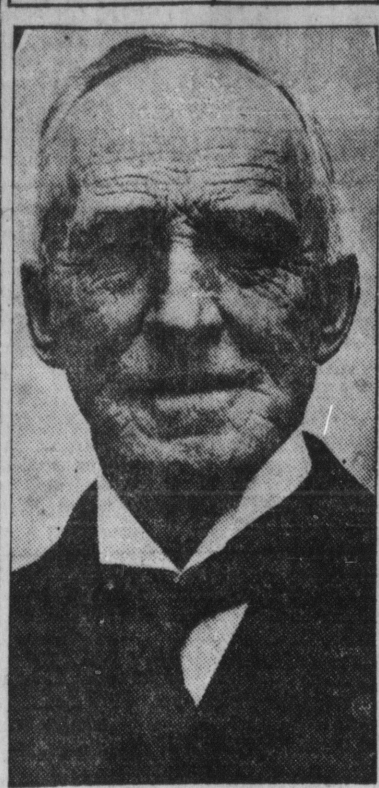

The supervisors' action in ordering plans prepared for a new county jail was commended.

The supervisors also came in for commendation for the improvements that they have made at the county park.

Revises Harbor Project
Harbor expenditures have been well handled, the jury found upon examination of the work done in the improvement of the county's port.

"The development of the harbor is of great importance to Orange county, we believe, and the project is entitled to every possible encouragement from the people of this county," the report stated.

New G. A. R. Leader
Resident of County
Thirty-three Years

GEORGE HUNTINGTON

George Huntington, the new commander of Sedgwick Post No. 17, G. A. R., has been a resident of Orange county for 33 years. He enlisted with the 105th New York infantry when he was sixteen and saw active service with Sheridan in his famous drive against Earley in Shenandoah valley.

It was near Cedar Creek that Sheridan, making his sensational ride, rejoined his demoralized troops after a brief separation from his men and turned the tide that resulted in the complete rout of General Earley's army.

Sheridan's magnetic leadership roused the Union soldiers to renewed effort and they not only recaptured their own artillery but seized that of the enemy as well.

As a token of their love and deep appreciation of the splendid work done by the retiring president, members of Sedgwick Relief Corps No. 17, G. A. R., yesterday presented Mrs. Elida Huntington with a beautiful gold watch. Mrs. Huntington, who is the wife of the new commander of the G. A. R. post here, was surprised by the gift and was deeply touched by the solicitude of her companions.

The presentation speech was delivered by Mrs. Viola Epps, who requested the retiring president to remove a small watch belonging to her daughter, which she had been wearing. She then produced a splendid gold wrist watch and asked Mrs. Huntington to accept it with the loving wishes of those with whom she had associated for many years.

"The surprise was all the more complete because I had steadfastly refused, during my term of office, to allow the corps to present me with gifts of any kind," said Mrs. Huntington. "They respected my wishes while I was president, but when I retired they stole a march on me. I am deeply grateful and I shall never forget my fellow workers for their thoughtfulness."

FILE SUIT TO CLEAR TITLE TO LAND HELD BY SANTA ANA BANK

Suit to quiet title to property in the Santa Ana business district was on file today in superior court, with the Farmers' and Merchants' Savings bank, as plaintiffs, and McEl Morrison, administrator for the estate of W. H. Titchenal, as defendant.

The property consists of a portion of a lot facing Main street, between Third and Fourth streets, where the bank is located. Head, Rutan and Sovel are attorneys for the bank.

The suit was filed for the purpose of clearing a legal cloud which rests over ten feet of the lot in the rear of the bank. This property was sold about 1897, and the action is based on the grounds that the notice of sale was insufficient. Public notice covering the sale was only for three weeks, instead of four weeks as is required, attorneys said, and this point involves legal technicalities.

The present action is designed to clear these technicalities.

MARRIED BUT IN NAME ONLY, IS HIS CHARGE

"The husband in name only" made his appearance here today when C. R. Wright filed a suit for divorce against Onie D. Wright.

The husband complains in his complaint that although he and his bride occupied the same house from the day of their marriage, December 7, 1920, until nearly a year later, October 17, 1921, they had never lived together as man and wife. On the latter date, the complaint recited, Wright's wife left his home. He Wrights own a filling station situated north of the county hospital on the state highway between Santa Ana and Anaheim.

In his bill of particulars the husband asserts that his bride had no reason for her actions. She had never loved him and never would, he frequently told him, he states. She often remarked that she did not know why she had ever been so foolish as to marry him.

Desertion and cruelty are alleged as the grounds for the divorce in the complaint, which was filed through Attorney Rowland Thompson.

SCORE PROPOSAL FOR SCHOOL ON SYCAMORE

First intimation of opposition to the proposal that $250,000 in bonds be voted here next Tuesday for school purposes became known today when M. H. Shields, rancher, 1416 North Main street, stated that of at least two dozen voters with whom he had conversed each had declared himself against the plan that $250,000 of the money, if the bonds carry, be spent for the erection of a school building on the site of the present Washington school.

The chief reasons, as Shields voiced them, for objection to putting up a building on the northwest corner of Sycamore and Church streets, is that this site is too centrally located, and that pupils who go to school there are consequently subjected to great risks of accident from passing motor cars.

Garage Held Menace
The proximity of the county garage, which is on the south side of Church street, and east of site of the proposed school, is another feature which Shields and those with whom he has talked deem objectionable.

"I think there is a strong possibility of the entire bond issue not carrying," Shields declared. "Because of the opposition to the proposal concerning the Sycamore street site."

At the same time that these objections were made public, the school board went forward intensively with its election campaign plans.

J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, announced that success of the proposed $250,000 bond issue would mean the establishment of kindergarten and all grades up to the sixth grade in the schools of the city.

Tells Advantages
This, Cranston pointed out, would eliminate many objectionable features now obtaining in connection with the practice of having to assemble sixth graders from all parts of the city at Washington school. It would also mean the establishment of the full series of grades at Washington school.

At a meeting of the school board yesterday afternoon plans for the campaign were discussed and arrangements were made for getting the voters to the polls.

Charles F. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce and member of the school board, announced that the Chamber would assist in providing cars for the voters. Referring to which voters may phone if automobiles are desired will be named later.

OUTLINE BUS SERVICE FROM LOCAL POINTS TO YORBA LINDA MEETING

Of interest to those planning to attend the fourth District Congress of Mothers and P.-T. A. meeting at Yorba Linda Saturday, January 14, was the announcement made today by the president, Mrs. Earl Morris, regarding transportation facilities.

A motor bus will leave the Santa Ana station of the Motor Transit company at Fifth and Bush streets at 8 a. m., reaching Brea at 8:40, where passengers will transfer to the Pacific Electric, leaving Brea at 8:49 a. m. They will arrive at Yorba Linda at 9:02, where a reception committee will greet them and escort them to Ley hall, the scene of the meeting. For the benefit of those unable to take the earlier bus, a second one will leave at 10:30 a. m., reaching Brea at 11:10, where passengers will transfer to the Pacific Electric, leaving Brea at 11:19 a. m. Return trips in the afternoon will be made at 4:09 and again at 4:58.

MRS. LURA BELL, 69, DIES AT SON'S HOME

Funeral services for Mrs. Lura V. Bell, 69, who died here this morning at the home of her son, E. A. Bell, 1720 Spurgeon street, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Smith & Tutill undertaking parlors, interment to be made in Fairhaven cemetery. The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, of which Mrs. Bell was a member, will officiate at the services.

Last week Mrs. Bell was stricken by paralysis, necessitating her removal from her home at 715 Mortimer street to the residence of her son at 1720 Spurgeon street, where her death occurred. In addition to E. A. Bell, the son, a brother, Vester Warner, of Los Angeles, survives.

Thirty-eight years ago, Mrs. Bell, accompanied by her husband, Leander Bell, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Warner, came to California from Cawker City, Kansas, the family locating at San Gabriel from which removal to Santa Ana was made a short time later. Mr. Bell died 25 years ago, having been in the photography business years prior to his death.

DIRECTORS OF BANK GIVEN RE-ELECTION

With the business of the bank in a highly satisfactory condition and without a change in its directorate or officers, the annual meeting of the Farmers' and Merchants' Savings bank was held yesterday afternoon.

Directors as re-elected are W. A. Huff, A. C. Bowler, W. B. Williams, R. E. Larter, J. D. Parsons, A. J. Crookshank and W. B. Tedford. Officers re-elected are: President, W. A. Huff; vice-president, W. B. Tedford; cashier, Alex. Brownridge; assistant cashiers, E. P. Stafford and J. H. Metzgar.

City and County

Although automobile trouble prevented a number of the Occidental college glee club members from reaching Santa Ana in time to participate in the concert given in the high school auditorium at 10:10 this morning, the numbers presented were well received by the capacity house of high school, junior college students and townsfolk.

At a meeting of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce, preceded by a banquet, officers were elected as follows: E. E. Jahraus, president for the fifth consecutive year; Joseph Thurston, vice president; Roy W. Peacock, secretary; Joseph Skidmore, secretary; R. C. Platt, director. An enrollment of 153 members, out of Laguna's 500 population, was reported, together with the interesting information that lights are to be installed at Arch Beach and a telephone exchange at Laguna, probably within a month.

SHIP 1100 CARS $500 LOSS WHEN CITRUS FRUIT LAST YEAR ELLIS RHODES HOME LOOTED

(Special to The Register)

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—The annual report of the Anaheim Orange and Lemon association, made public here today, shows that 439,888 boxes of citrus fruit were shipped during 1921. There were approximately 1100 cars containing 400 boxes to the car. If set aside by side, officers of the company said, the individual fruit would easily reach from Anaheim to Chicago.

The figures represent a gain of 35 per cent over shipments the previous year. The average figure was 28 cents a packed box, or 35 cents a 100 pounds. The percentage of decayed fruit was the smallest in the history of the association.

The report shows that total cash deposited was $1,925,625. After all bills were paid there was a surplus of $118,150.31. The pay-roll for the year was $194,795.38. More than 128,000 trees were fumigated and only 15,000 remain to be fumigated.

Jewelry and clothing valued at approximately $550 were stolen by burglars who entered the home of Ellis Rhodes, director of the Orange County Choral union, at the Buaro road crossing of the Pacific Electric railway, northwest of Santa Ana, according to a report on file today at the office of Sheriff C. E. Jackson.

In the burglary, which took place
Tuesday night and which was not reported to the authorities until late yesterday, Rhodes lost clothing and jewelry to the value of nearly $200.
Mrs. E. E. Hamilton, who lives at the Rhodes residence, suffered loss of the jewelry loss, which amounted to about $350.

Beside two suits of clothing, a safety razor, several rings, lingerie clips, a gold bar pin, and earrings, the loot included several pieces of rare jewelry. One was a carved snake bracelet of Chinese design, worth $150. Another pair of gold bracelets, also of Chinese carved pattern, was valued at $100. In addition there was stolen an antique cameo, highly valued for sentimental reasons.

The dinner and dancing party scheduled for tomorrow night under the auspices of the motor car dealers' craft of the Orange County Automobile Trades association has been postponed indefinitely, according to announcement today of Herbert O. Davis, secretary. The event was to have been held at the Balboa Palisades tavern, but road conditions, since the rains, have made postponement necessary, said the secretary.

The dealers' craft will hold a special meeting at Elks' club, Anaheim, tomorrow night. The meeting will start at 6:30 o'clock.

H. A. Spearle, sales manager for Earl C. Anthony, will address the meeting. The attendance will be limited to thirty, it was announced.

Interest of walnut growers in this and other sections of Southern California centered today on the program of the fourth annual wal-noon at 1:30.

Addresses by walnut experts will be featured, talks by soil pathologists, farm bureau specialists and horticultural authorities.

SHIP PEDIGREED FOXES.
SUMMERSIDE, Prince Edward Island, Jan. 12.—One of the largest shipments of pedigreed silver black foxes to leave Prince Edward Island was shipped recently, and consisted of 300 animals destined for the United States including points in the state of New York, Colorado, Wisconsin and Washington. These valuable animals were shipped by express, occupying two express cars and were accompanied by a qualified caretaker carrying pedigree certificates, veterinary health certificates, consular invoices and exportation permits. The demand for high grade Prince Edward Island silver foxes for breeding purposes is increasing rapidly from year to year.

Be Your Home Ever So Charming

You may make it even more charming with MUSIC. Nothing adds so much charm and contentment to the home-circle as the entrancing melodies and tunes we love. A PIANO creates an atmosphere of art and refinement in the home as nothing else can, and especially so if it is a PLAYER-PIANO, then you can all play it, play the kind of music you love, play it whenever you wish and play it as YOU like it, Yes—and the words of the songs are printed right on the player-rolls, so that YOU MAY SING AS YOU PLAY THE SONGS THAT ARE DEAR TO YOUR HEART, be they classical, religious or popular melodies.

Our consistent moderate "One Price" plan of selling assures you a real value for every dollar of cost.

Makes Night Driving A Pleasure—

In Long Beach there was a wholesale raid of motorists last night! More than a hundred were taken into camp for driving with irregular lights. This couldn't possibly happen if the cars were equipped with BROWN REFLECTORS—The "Road Wide Light."

There is nothing else like it in the world. Shows the road at night completely, plainly—cuts fog like cheese—and yet, it is recommended by traffic officers everywhere.

We sell them with a money-back guarantee. Try them for ten days and if for ANY reason you do not like them we will take them back and replace your old reflectors without expense to you.

BAUER RECEIVED PLAUDITS FROM EUROPEANS

Music lovers of Santa Ana are anticipating an evening of rare enjoyment tomorrow when Harold Bauer, world-famous pianist, gives a concert program at the Santa Ana high school auditorium. The curtain will rise at 8:30, the artist appearing as the fifth event on the 1921-22 concert season of the Santa Ana Musical association.

Bauer is an Englishman by birth, and proposes to become an American by adoption. He is credited with achieving a brilliant record abroad before beginning his concert work in this country.

One of Bauer's English admirers has taken the trouble to analyze Bauer's London notices to show the various aspects in which the pianist has been termed "the greatest" by England's foremost critics. The result is interesting.

In the London Globe he finds the statement: "There is no finer Schumann player alive than Bauer." The Saturday Review contends that "as a Chopin player, Bauer comes easily first amongst all pianists now before the public." The Daily Graphic is especially taken with his playing of Bach, declaring that in his performance of the Italian concerto he made the work "a full-blooded thing of life."

FAILURE AWAITS THOSE DENYING JESUS CHRIST

Eventual failure for those who keep Jesus Christ out of their hearts was the prediction made last night by the Rev. W. E. McCullough, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church in Los Angeles, in his sermon at the United Presbyterian church as the third night of the "week of prayer" services here.

The Rev. Mr. McCullough spoke clearly and distinctly bringing his appeal for those unsaved in short sentences.

"We have the hope of redemption through the blood of Jesus Christ who died on the cross for us," he said as he closed his address. "If we refuse to listen to the word of God we will fail."

"While I was in France I stood at the tomb of Napoleon. It is a beautiful place but as I stood there the words of Ingersoll came to me. He said, 'I would rather have been the poorest peasant in France than to have been a murderer! Napoleon had ability but he failed because he had no room in his heart for the word of God.'

Defies Comparison

Basing his sermon on what he termed as logic and something that the thinking man could not get around, the Rev. Mr. McCullough discussed the person of Christ, the work of Christ and the character of Christ and defied any comparison to them.

"In nineteen hundred years," he said, "hundreds of millions of men have seen the light and become followers of Christ. There has never been anything like it in history."

"The person of Christ towers above anything in life. Ask the man on the street who Plato was and half of them can't tell you. Ask them about Christ and there won't be one in a million who won't be able to tell you about Him. Why does He hold that peculiar position in history? Because He is Christ. Christ was the son of God. That is the answer."

"Nineteen centuries have not dimmed the character of Christ. The whole universe centers around Him. He is the divine Son of God. The books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John have stood the test of time. They record the truth. The faults of men have not been blotted out in those books but I defy anyone to find one word that would throw a stain on the character of Christ."

"Men who follow Him become more and more like Him. It is the spiritual transformation. They acquire the graces of spirit and higher and higher ideals."

Discussing the work of Christ, the Rev. Mr. McCullough said the great men on earth could not be compared with Him because they pale into insignificance before Him.

"There have been many instances of sacrifice in the world," the speaker said, "I stood before the graves of five American soldiers in France who gave their lives in the World War. They had sacrificed. As I stood there, I consecrated myself anew to Him who gave His life on the cross that we might live."

The state president of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, will make the address at tonight's services, to be held at the First Baptist church.

CHARGE BURGLARY IN OIL STATION LOOTING

Information formally charging burglary was filed in superior court today against Harold C. Vaughn, who is accused of having entered the W. D. Dillenback oil station at Sixth and Main streets and of having stolen auto tires and accessories. He was recently held to answer by Justice J. B. Cox under $1000 bail.

"There is much in a name," he said. "The name 'Lion' may well fit

GALVESTON WANTS TO HOLD GRAIN TRAFFIC

GALVESTON, Texas, Jan. 12.—Any move on the part of Boston, or any other Atlantic port, to disturb grain rate arrangements will be resisted by Galveston shipping interests. PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ADVERTISE SOUTHLAND

Orange county supervisors who attended the meeting of the All-Year club of Southern California, held yesterday in Los Angeles, said today that the supervisors of eight counties had pledged financial support and united effort in carrying out the plans of the club for the present year.

"Los Angeles county supervisors warmly commended the campaign of advertising now being carried on throughout the country," said T. B. Talbert, and Chairman McClellan, for the Los Angeles supervisors, announced that the board had voted $50,000 for the club's 1922 campaign.

"Representatives of other counties also pledged moral and financial support. These included Kern, Ventura, Orange, Riverside, San Diego, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara and Imperial. Los Angeles county supervisors announced that $100,000 will be contributed for 1923 if the All-Year club can show the board a record of progress comparable with what has been done thus far. Ventura voted $2500, Santa Barbara $2500 and Orange $2500."

The purpose of the club is to advertise Southern California in an extensive manner throughout the United States.

CHAPTER VIII

"Your ancestral home," Mr. Mangan observed, as the car turned the first bend in the grass-grown avenue and Dominey Hall came into sight. "Darned fine house, too!"

His companion made no reply. A storm had come up during the last few minutes, and, as though he felt the cold, he had dragged his hat over his eyes and turned his coat collar up to his ears. The house, with its great double front, was now clearly visible—the time-worn, Elizabethan, red brick outline that faced the park southwards, and the stone-supported, grim and weather-stained back which confronted the marshes and the sea. Mr. Mangan continued to make amiable conversation.

"We have kept the old place weather-tight, somehow or other," he said, "and I don't think you'll miss the timber much. We've taken it as far as possible from the outlying woods."

"Any from the Black Wood?" Dominey asked, without turning his head.

"Mr. Mangan shook his head. "Not a stump," he replied, "and for a very excellent reason. Not one of the woodmen would ever get near the place."

"The superstition remains, then?"

"The villagers are absolutely rabid about it. There are at least a dozen who declare that they have seen the ghost of Roger Unthank, and a score or more who will swear by all that is holy that they have heard his call at night."

"Does he still select the park and the terrace outside the house for his midnight perambulations?" Dominey enquired.

The lawyer hesitated.

"The idea is, I believe," he said, "that the ghost makes his way out from the wood and sits on the terrace underneath Lady Dominey's window. All bunkum, of course, but I can assure you that every servant and caretaker we've had there has given notice within a month. That is the sole reason why I haven't ventured to recommend long ago that you should get rid of Mrs. Unthank."

"She is still in attendance upon Lady Dominey, then?"

"Simply because we couldn't get any one else to stay there," the lawyer explained, "and her ladyship positively declines to leave the hall. Between ourselves, I think its time a change was made. We'll have a chat after dinner, if you've no objection.—You see, we've left all the trees in the park," he went on, with an air of satisfaction. "Beautiful place, this, in the springtime. I was down last May for a night, and I never saw such buttercups in my life. The cows here were almost up to their knees in pasture, and the bluebells in the home woods were wonderful. The whole of the little painting colony down at Flankey painted themselves loose upon the place last spring."

"Some of the old wall is down, I see," Dominey remarked with a frown, as he gazed towards the enclosed kitchen garden.

Mr. Mangan was momentarily surprised.

"That wall has been down, to my knowledge, for twenty years," he reminded his companion.

Dominey nodded, "I had forgotten," he muttered.

"We wrote you, by the by," the lawyer continued, "suggesting the sale of one or two of the pictures, to form a fund for repairs, but thank goodness you didn't reply! We'll have some workpeople here as soon as you've decided what you'd like done, I'm afraid," he added, as they turned in through some iron gates and entered the last sweep in front of the house. "You won't find many familiar faces to welcome you. There's Loveybond, the gardener, whom you would scarcely remember, and Middleton, the head keeper, who has really been a godsend so far as the game is concerned. No one at all indoors, except—Mrs. Unthank."

LAGUNA WOMEN TO ORGANIZE NEW CLUB

Plan to Present Programs by Local Artists On Friday Mornings

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 12.—Tomorrow morning in the art gallery of the Laguna Beach Art association will be held an important meeting of all the women of Laguna Beach for the purpose of organizing a women's club. This new organization is meant to include every woman in Laguna Beach and they hope ultimately to achieve by the merit of their programs a hundred per cent membership.

They will pattern themselves to a large extent after the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles. Their meetings will be held each Friday morning and the program will contain each week some feature.

There is in Laguna Beach a large talent to draw from. We have with us either permanently or as visitors people of note from all over the world. Mrs. Rider, formerly a dancer for the Metropolitan opera house of New York City, who recently has taken up her residence here has promised a program of dancing and has offered to train some of the young of the Beach to give a program. There are here a number of talented musicians. There are artists and lecturers on art. There are writers and men and women who are familiar with literature from its sources to the most modern vers libre. And constantly from the outside world there come to us representatives of most of the phases of our modern life.

A parallel is drawn between the situation here and that at La Jolla, where there is a woman's club with an active membership of 250 where they have programs that cannot be duplicated anywhere. In La Jolla they have donated to them a beautiful club building. Here, however, it is expected that the new club will give its every possible assistance to the Community club and will help towards its building and will use that building when completed, for its meetings.

The Patchwork Quilt
HAVE YOU A PIECE
TO PUT IN IT?

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT.
WHAT HAPPENED THEN.
New Year's resolves of earnest men
Are kept a day or two and then—
It seems as though a cruel fate Must come to smash them soon or late.

Brown swore he'd pay up all he owed
And ease his debtors of a load—
He'd keep his word, beyond a doubt
But sad to say, his cash gave out!

Smith swore off staying out at night,
For movie, poker game or fight,
He gave his word, and kept the same.
Until he joined a friendly game!

Jones promised he'd never swear again,
He kept his word two days, and then—

He parked his car just over the line
And had to go and pay a fine!

Smith swore he'd go to church each week
To hear his favorite preacher speak.
Smith's iron will deserves some praise—

He kept his word for six long days!

WE KNOW A MAN who declares that the classified ad department of a live daily paper, yields more interest, enjoyment and information to the column, than any other section of the paper.

Privately, we feel that man has never read the quilt, but we agree with him to the extent that we always like to read the classified ads ourselves, and are almost always sure of finding something of interest.

Far be it from us to seek to advertise our own paper, so we will use no name, but merely say that the best and most popular paper in Orange county recently carried this ad.

FOR RENT—Bedroom fireplace and lots of sunlight. Close in. 805 No.
Broadway.

We like it.
For a long time we have known that sunlight was a mighty nice thing to have around, but it always seemed so plentiful, that it never entered our heads to gather up a supply and capitalize it. Of course we realize that our state has done that in a measure, but still, we feel that it remained for an embryo Henry Ford to see the possibilities of doing it up in small packages and placing it within the reach of the man of modest means.

We would have been glad to rent a little of it, during those dark days so prevalent at the holiday time, but alas! the advertisement had not appeared then.

And a bedroom fireplace! We have long felt that our bedroom lacked something, and now we know that it is the fireplace.

We mean to stop at 805 North Broadway, some day when we happen to be going past, and see if it would be possible to rent that fireplace for a sum within our rather limited means. They shouldn't ask very much—we would only want it through the winter months.

SEPTENTRIONES RISES to remark that if our humerus is articulating properly, we can appreciate the mirth prevailing when a student in chemistry described the toxic effects of Prussic acid as follows:
"It is so poisonous, that a drop of it on the tongue of a dog, will kill a man."

As for Septentriones' hair raising name, we will tell you, sometime when he sends another contribution, just why he chose to bathe himself thus and so.

WE LIKE CHRISTOPHER MOR-LEY, and confess we wish we might have written "Bayberry Candles," which is one of the bits in his latest book. If verse, "Chimney Smoke," published by the George H. Doran Company.

The verses which he calls "Bayberry Candles" are
"Dear sweet, when dusk comes up the hill,
The fire leaps high with golden prongs;

I place along the chimney sill
The tiny candles of my songs.

And though unsteadily they burn,
As evening shades from gray to blue,
Like candles they will surely learn
To shine more clear for love of you."

features of the junior high school
P-T. A. meeting held in the art room of junior high school yesterday afternoon.

The crowded condition of the city schools and the need for deciding in favor of the contemplated bond issue, were matters dwelt upon by Superintendent Cranston, while Mr. Hammond outlined the different courses at the high school upon which the graduates of junior high would enter their freshman year.

There was an excellent attendance to listen to the talks which were highly illuminating and interesting.

Eleven Little Maids
Enjoy Birthday Party
Of Eleven Year-old Hostess

All in red and white, were the decorations for the birthday party Wednesday afternoon, for little Miss Marcene Cook, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, 10112 West Second street.

It was Marcene's eleventh birthday, and there were as many guests as the young hostess was years old.
Bringing pretty gifts, they gathered for the afternoon of merriment and games, which ended with the dainty refreshments when the pretty white birthday cake was cut and distributed.

The young guests included the Misses Laura Bondley, Ione Hansen, Gertrude Boyd, Dorothy Ellis, Doothy Obar, Anna Walkinshaw, Lola Schrage, Gladys Vest, Jean Rowland, Marian Hawkins and Catherine Chandler.

Attractive Luncheon Honors Guests Drawn by Conference, W. C. T. U.

Blouquet of the fast approaching springtime, were the house and table decorations characterizing the dorming luncheon which Mrs. T. F.
Warren gave today at her home, 814
Parion street, honoring Mrs. Eva C.
Wheeler, state W. C. T. U. president, and Mrs. Hattie Young, state secretary.

Fragrant violets and white hyacinthins, massed in the center of the luncheon table, smiled at their reflection in the plateau upon which they rested, while attractive cards marked places for the hostess, Mrs.
Warren, the two honor guests, Mrs.
Wheeler and Mrs. Young, Miss Margaret Bill, national lecturer for the Union, Mrs. G. P. Hill, county president and Mrs. J. E. Kellogg, county treasurer.

The hostess, in addition to her duties as county secretary, is assistant state recording secretary, and as such, a member of the official board of the state.

The attractive three course luncheon with which she honored her sister officers and workers, was served at 12 o'clock, in order that all might be at the Baptist church in time for the formal opening of the regional conference of the W. C. T. U., which was scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon and which will conclude tomorrow night.

Formal Announcement
Of Approaching Wedding
Of Interest to Santa Anans

Mr. and Mrs. M. Russell Scott, of Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena, announce the engagement of their daughter Josephine, to Mr. Eldon Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller, of South Lyon street, Santa Ana.

The wedding will take place the last of this month.

Ladies' Guild

Fully 150 members of the parish of the Church of the Messiah, responded last night, to the dinner invitation issued by the members of the Ladies' Guild of the church.

The long tables were spread in the parish rooms of the church, and a delicious course dinner, prepared by the splendid cooks of the Guild, was served to the merry diners.

Following the dinner hour, the tables were cleared from the room and a delightfully informal party was staged, with impromptu games and music adding their quota to the enjoyment.

The dinner was given to promote sociability and friendship among the members of the parish, and members of the Guild were congratulated upon the success of their efforts, for under the genial influence of the excellent food and the merry evening, all trace of coldness and formality vanished as frost before the sun.

Mrs. Ida Dunphy, president of the Guild, and her efficient aides, among them being Mrs. Crawford and Mrs.
Taylor, chairmen of important committees, were among those directly responsible for the evening's success.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need
"California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother!
You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—

Announcement of Wedding Comes as Surprise
To Many Friends

Announcement made today of the marriage on Saturday, January 7, of Miss Lorraine Roberts with much pleasurable surprise.

The wedding occurred in Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by the Rev.
Mr. Ingalls of the Episcopal church, at his home on West Fifty-fourth street.

The young couple plan to make their home in Taft, where Mr. Templeton is geologist and civil engineer with the General Petroleum company. He will be remembered by a large number of friends here, as the family once resided in Santa Ana. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.
C. Templeton, now make their home at Downey. Mr. J. C. Templeton was city superintendent of schools here for several years fifteen or twenty years ago.

Mr. Templeton is a Stanford man, and a native son, just as Mrs. Templeton is a native daughter, and was such a society in existence, the latter might qualify as a "native granddaughter," as her parents were both California-born, and she is a descendant of true pioneer stock.

With her mother, Mrs. E. C. Roberts, she has made her home at 847 North Broadway, and is a graduate of the Santa Ana high school, class of 1916.

In her associations at the office of W. F. Menton, she has formed the same friendships as in her school and social life, and the fact of her departure from the city to make her home elsewhere will be a matter of regret to many warm friends.

Household Economics

When members of the Fourth Household Economics section of the Ebell club met Tuesday, at the pleasant home of Mrs. G. E. Bruns, 1209 Spurgeon street, it was to partake of a delicious luncheon served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs.
Frank Sawyer and Mrs. N. E. Lentz.

At the conclusion of the dainty course luncheon, Mrs. John A. Bond gave a very instructive paper on "Right and Wrong Diet," paper on Mrs. Bond also read an interesting sketch, "The Ears of the Tea-kettle," emphasizing that neatness and order are necessary to make a success of that noblest, grandest and most needed business on earth, housekeeping.

During the short business session that followed, it transpired that the section had donated ten dollars to the Christmas fund of the Delhi Mexican school and over twenty-five dollars for the buying and making of sheets, pillow cases and towels for the Day Nursery.

Members of this section are Mrs.
Oliver L. Halsell, leader, Mrs. C. L.

Smartly-appointed Bridge Is Highlight In Week's Society Calendar

With the charming home of Mrs.
Arnold Peek, 1225 North Main street, rendered still more charming by masses of violets and cyclamen, carrying out a color scheme of violet and rose, Mrs. Peek and Mrs. Harold Nelson yesterday afternoon welcomed their friends at a bridge party.

The series of games which ensued resulted in Mrs. Hans Wagner and Mrs. Edward Hummel winning the prizes, a rose-colored ostrich feather pen for Mrs. Wagner, and a Dresden china bowl for Mrs. Hummel, while Mrs. James Livesey was amply consoled by a dainty box of lavender tinted note paper.

At the conclusion of the games, the guests remained seated at the small tables where a dainty collation was served by the hostesses, who were assisted in their duties throughout the afternoon, by Mrs. Hans Wagner and Mrs. Burr Shafer.

The two hostesses were to entertain again this afternoon, bridge again to be the entertaining feature.
The guests asked to yesterday's function included Mesdames Howard

Book Review

Reviews of the novel and the play which won the Pulitzer prizes in 1921, formed the entertainment of the Book Review club, meeting Tuesday night, January 10, with Mrs. Ella Campau, 801 French street.

The novel, "The Age of Innocence" by Edith Wharton, was considered the best work of fiction written by Americans and portraying American ideals of life.

The play, "Miss Lulu Bett," by Zona Gale, was awarded the prize as the best example of the educational value of the stage in teaching manners and morals.

Mrs. Alice Hatch told most skillfully, the complicated story of "The Age of Innocence." The theme is the struggle of the Mingott family, leaders in New York society of fifty years ago, to uphold the dignity and ideals of a passing age and at the same time be loyal to the younger generation which was ushering in the frankness and freedom from convention to be characteristic of the next generation.

Mrs. Hatch quite won the sympathy of her audience for the older school and an appreciation of their endeavor to maintain the standards which meant stability in social custom.

Miss Amy Livingston told in a delightful way, the story of "Miss Lulu Bett," the story of a commonplace
American family in a commonplace American town. The one saving touch in the sordidness of the picture is Lulu Bett herself, who unselfishly serves her sister's family.

To the telling the story, Miss Livingston added a few criticisms made upon it, bringing out four points in which it differs from the usual play of American life.

Miss Gale has dared purposely to write dull dialogue; she has presented a thoroughly disagreeable stage child, a disagreeable old lady in direct defiance to tradition, and lastly has introduced two scenes with the same dialogue—setting forth the monotony found in some homes.

Miss Livingston added a fifth innovation—the author has presented a real heroine against the background of dull and drab people.

John Luxembourg, fire chief, has sold his residence at 415 Fruit street to Veran M. and Edna M. Knoll, who are to take possession this week. The sale was made through the agency of
R. R. Smith and Son.

Musical Kindergarten To Be Introduced

A new departure in the idea of kindergartens is being introduced in Santa Ana by Miss Gladys L. Harris who arrived in this city about two months ago, to make her home.

Miss Harris is a teacher of wide experience, specializing in music and French, and her idea is to inaugurate a musical kindergarten, where little people of tender years may spend their mornings in an atmosphere of culture.

Music will be a leading feature, and French will be spoken in preference to English. The idea is to give children a groundwork in the foreign tongue, much as they receive it in English, and thus simplify the language for them when they are ready to study it in the course at school.

Miss Harris is English by birth and holds a bronze medal from the London Academy of Music for piano-forte. She received much of her training in France and in addition to much time spent there at different intervals, was a resident of Paris for two years, perfecting her accent preparatory to taking up teaching French in connection with her music.

She makes a specialty of beginners in either branch, and also plans to open classes for the advanced students, and is already conducting evening classes in French in addition to her afternoon classes in music and Wednesday and Friday afternoon classes in Orange.

The kindergarten which she plans to open will be held in the mornings from 9 to 11 o'clock at her home, 415 West Chestnut street.

Missionary Society

Made especially interesting by the introduction of the personal element into so many features of the program, was the meeting yesterday afternoon, of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church.

The meeting was held in the church parlors and after a brief business session, the president Mrs. H. A. Allen, very interestingly related her experiences, while on a recent Eastern trip, when she visited the headquarters of the Woman's Board of Home and Foreign Missions in New York City; she spoke also of the sights that she saw at Ellis Island.

While in Washington, D. C., through the courtesy of the wife of Senator New, Mrs. Allen was presented to President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, and taken through the White House.

The leader of the afternoon's program was Mrs. E. B. Smith, the home topic being "The Working Dollar," and the foreign, "China." Mrs. E. J. Barnard was in charge of the devotionals and read as her lesson the 35th chapter of Isaiah.

Mrs. W. W. Anderson and Mrs. L. Mayfield gave instructive reports from the recent Presbyterial, and Mrs. Smith read an exceedingly interesting letter from Miss Grave Rowley, of China.

Mrs. Whiting, who served for many years as a missionary in China, going out in 1869, spoke of the years that she spent in that foreign field, drawing a vivid picture of the contrast of conditions as they were when she first arrived in that country, and when she left.

Especially delightful and pleasing was the story she told of a girl, who when but six years of age, was taken by the Presbyterian women of America and supported and educated, and who is now doing a wonderful work for the uplift of her own people.

Modern Poetry

Life and verse of the famous Irish poet, William Butler Yeats, occupied the attention of members of the Modern Poetry section of Ebell society, meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. F. D. Hawkinson and Mrs. James F. Doyle at the home of the former, 412 West Second street.

Matters of business, presented by the section leader, Miss Mabel Whiting, occupied a brief period before the program opened with a sketch of the poet's life, read by Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, who supplemented her paper with interesting excerpts from different magazine articles.

Selections from the collected verse of Yeats, typifying his style, were then read with much expression by Mrs. Albert Zaiser, who chose the one-act lyric drama, "The Land of Heart's Desire," followed by two short poems, "Wild Swans at Coole" and "The Song of the Wandering Tensgar."

During the social hour which followed the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Hawkinson and Mrs. Doyle served appetizing refreshments to the members and guests present who included Mrs. Mark Lacy, Mrs. Marvin Morrison, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Mrs. Jack Oliver, Mrs. F. C. Rowland, Mrs. Albert Zaiser, Mrs. C. M. Rowland, Mrs. Ralph Mead, Mrs. Harwood Sharp, Mrs. E. Stephenson, Mrs. Virgil Fisher of Los Angeles, Mrs. Shelton of San Francisco, Miss Jennie Lasby, Miss Beulah May and Miss Mabel Whiting.

FORD AND MOTORCYCLE WRESTLE WITH HENRY EMERGING AS VICTOR

Two traffic accidents in this city within the last twenty-four hours were devoid of injury or serious damage, it was shown today by reports made at police headquarters.

A Ford downed a motorcycle and was holding it down when the dust cleared away after a collision at Fourth and Hesperian streets late yesterday. Mike Duran, 1826 West Second, was riding the motorcycle and today he drove to 1521 West First street, was at the wheel of the Ford. Both were traveling west on Fourth street, Duran told the police that De Groot cut a corner as Duran was about to turn on Hesperian.

When the vehicles were stopped the Ford was resting on the smaller machine.

There were no serious results in a collision between a car driven by B. A. Zuckerman, 629 South Glassell street, Orange, and a car registered in the name of H. W. Wing, Santa Ana. This occurred last evening at Fourth and Van Ness.

STEIN WILL OCCUPY SPACIOUS QUARTERS

Between 9 o'clock next Saturday evening and 8 o'clock Monday morning the location of Stein's stationery store will be changed from 210 to 307 West Fourth street.

According to Stein, the new quarters will afford four times the present space. The main floor of the store will be 30 by 100 feet, as compared with 17 by 100 feet at the present time. A mezzanine floor will afford additional area, while the entire second floor, 50 by 100 feet, will be utilized. It is estimated that the cost of remodeling the store rooms will be $8,000.

The flooring, bulkheads and background will be features of the large display windows which are being constructed for Stein, and which will be completed by next Monday. The plate glass will be set at an angle, a scheme evolved to eliminate glare. Holophane reflectors will be used in lighting. The estimated cost of the window alterations is $3,000.

While business will be conducted in the new store all next week, Stein announced plans for a reception to be given a week from next Saturday evening in the new quarters.

CONDITION OF REEVES STILL HELD SERIOUS

Little change was noted in the condition of John B. Reeves, who has been seriously ill at his home in Fullerton, according to attending physicians today.

Reeves, who is a brother of Judge Sidney N. Reeves, presiding at the Burch trial in Los Angeles, has been in poor health for several months. He has been suffering from a complication of diseases and recently submitted to an operation in Fullerton.

YORBA LINDA WOMEN PLAN HOME FOR CLUB

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 12.—Plans are underway for the erection of a new club house for the Yorba Linda Woman's club. The building committee is developing plans for the structure and will have them ready to present to the club members in a few days. It is hoped to have the building completed by March 1.

TO RAISE REINDEER.
OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Extensive plans for promoting the reindeer industry have been put into operation by the Hudson's Bay company in an endeavor to make productive the vast stretches of the Northwest. Over 600 reindeer have been recently shipped from Norway to Baffin Island. Accompanying these animals were Lapland herders with their families, reindeer sleighs, skis, and all the equipment necessary to launch the industry properly.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—Bishop Francis Xavier Brunet of the Roman Catholic diocese of Mont Laurier, died today after a brief illness. He was 54 years old and was consecrated October 28, 1913.

TEXT OF JURY'S REPORT

To The Hon. Z. B. West,
Judge of the superior court in and for the county of Orange, state of California.

Pursuant to your instructions, we, the grand jury, impaneled November 4, 1921, have completed our investigations of the various offices of the county and city officials of Orange county, and report as follows:

Mr. E. B. Collier, having been appointed as foreman, we met and elected Mrs. Ella G. Gowen, secretary and the following committees were selected:

Board of supervisors—L. N. Gardner, Mrs. Blanche Upham, Mrs. Clara Wilson, B. F. Bryan.

County superintendent of schools, auditor and treasurer—George R. Reburn, E. C. Wright.

County clerk, assessor, recorder, district attorney, coroner and public administrator—L. L. Marchant, Mrs. Ella G. Gowen.

County tax collector and sheriff—Mrs. Clara Clarkson, W. W. Perry.

County roads, bridges, school buildings, public buildings and justices of the peace—William F. Feldner, W. W. Anderson, George McNeil.

Cities—J. H. Whitaker, Mrs. Char-ity M. Remsburg, Mrs. Nora E. Fairbanks, R. B. Collis, W. J. Elliott.

We have examined the accounting records of the county of Orange, the cities of Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Seal Beach, Brea, Stanton and Orange Harbor; Justices of the Peace J. B. Cox, Santa Ana; J. S. Howard, Anaheim; William French Fullerton; Samuel Armour, Orange; Leo Goepfer, Newport Beach; C. W. Warner, Huntington Beach; J. Dan-eri, San Juan Capistrano; D. D. White, Laguna Beach; D. W. Hassen, Buena Park; H. E. Hart, La Habra; A. Lemke, Yorba; W. L. Rideout, Placentia; G. H. Morrison, Seal Beach; S. Woolridge, Garden Grove; and H. W. Smith, Tustin.

COUNTY OF ORANGE

We have carefully examined and checked all receipts and disbursements of all kinds of the various departments of the county of Orange, for the period November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921, inclusive.

We found the records to be exceptionally well and accurately kept. We feel that much conscientious effort has been directed along this line by all departments.

On December 1, 1921, we made an actual cash count of funds in the possession of the county treasurer. Said count disclosed that the funds belonging to the county as at the close of business, November 30, 1921, were as follows:

Actual cash on hand as per count $ 25,605.36

Funds in transit, pay coupons, and bonds—Kountz Bros. N. Y. 6,440.56

Funds on deposit in various banks of the county 958,000.00

With reference to funds on deposit with various banks of the county, as shown above, $958,000 will state that this amount was verified by correspondence with each of the banks holding county funds and found correct.

To second the said loans, these banks have deposited with the county treasurer collateral in the form of bonds totalling $1,129,125.00 par value. Said bonds were examined individually and checked against treasurer's records. The total was found to be in exact accord with information secured from each bank as to the amount of collateral deposited by them. The bonds deposited with treasurer as collateral have all been examined and approved by the district attorney.

We have examined all documents of the board of supervisors in the nature of special authorizations to draw warrants for expenditures other than in the regular course of business. In all cases we found the proper resolutions appearing on the minutes of the board for the same.

All warrants representing disbursements of funds were checked in detail against records and found to be properly entered. All receipts were similarly accounted for. A few minor errors were found. These have been corrected.

We have verified all disbursements for the redemption of bonds of the county of Orange and the payment of coupons for interest on said bonds for the period November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921. This was done by inspection of each bond and coupon covering said period and proving totals of same against the accounting records. All bonds and coupons paid have been properly cancelled. We wish to call attention here that for the past year or two prior to the period covered by us, the bonds and coupons paid have not been audited.

We recommend that some competent person be employed to verify the expenditures for this purpose since the last audit as it involves hundreds of thousands of dollars of public funds.

For the past ten years the county tax collector, Mr. Lamb, has collected taxes for the city of Fullerton, for a bond assessment called "Sewer assessment District No. 1." The collection of this assessment was completed January 6, 1922. It is the desire of the tax collector to have the record of his collections checked in order that he can be relieved of further responsibility in the matter. We believe this is a matter which the city of Fullerton owes Mr. Lamb and we respectfully recommend that it be done.

CITIES OF SANTA ANA, FULLERTON, ANAHEIM, ORANGE, NEWPORT BEACH, HUNTINGTON BEACH, SEAL BEACH, BREA, STANTON, ORANGEHARBOR.

We have checked all receipts and disbursements of the above cities for the period, November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921, and find same to be properly recorded. Wherever we found clerical errors, we have called same to the attention of the proper officials and same have been corrected.

In all the cities above mentioned, we verified all disbursements for the period, November 1, 1920, to October 31, 1921, for the redemption of bonds and coupons for interest on same. As far as we were advised this has not been done in previous years. A number of city officials, whose duties it is to account for expenditures of this nature, have expressed a desire to us that we recommend that all paid bonds and coupons for past years be audited in all cases where it has not been done. In fairness to these officials we agree that such a step should be taken by each city.

After careful consideration we have come to the conclusion that there is need in all the above cities, with a possible exception of the city of Fullerton, of revision in their accounting records better to account for the cities' funds. In the first place, each of the above cities arrives at practically the same information in a different way. Some methods are practical, others necessitate a great amount of duplication of work without giving the proper information in the most efficient manner.

In most cases, the present systems in use are the same as those of many years past. The great increase in population of our county and cities has brought us to face the fact that we have outgrown the old systems of accounting and must readjust ourselves to present conditions.

In order that revenues and expenses can be properly accounted for and the necessary information regarding operations of the cities and liabilities can be secured and readily proven, we feel that it is necessary and vital that double entry book-keeping be installed and maintained.

By using such a system an offsetting entry must be made for every other entry. When all entries are verified and balanced and fund accounts reconciled to the actual cash counts it automatically proves that all items of income and expense have been properly accounted for.

At present the records are kept by single entry and while funds can be accounted for because of the fact that the treasurer and auditor or clerk must check their records against each other, nevertheless, it does not permit absolute certainty in accounting for all income and expense or expenditures of a capital nature or income incurring a liability for the reason that no general ledger accounts are maintained.

We believe the municipalities of Orange county should have their systems of accounting so organized that the assets and liabilities of the various cities can be readily shown and balance sheets of each city be prepared at such times as the books are closed. This is not only for the sake of having valuable information at hand but in the case of liabilities for bond issues and other similar accounts it furnishes controlling accounts against which to prove the detailed bond registers which represent a very important part of their accounting system.

The city of Fullerton, a few years ago, installed a system of accounts, which, in our opinion, should be duplicated in form in all other cities of the county, the smaller cities, of course, in less degree but in incorporating the same principles.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Considering the amount of travel they have undergone during the past year, we found the dirt roads in general in good condition. We would urge, however, upon county officials, that close attention be given by them to working the dirt roads as soon after the rains as possible, smoothing them up, filling in the low places, rounding up the grades, and providing gutters and substantial culverts where recent storms have shown such work to be advisable, and looking after drainage of roads in general.

We urge that county officials take action to stop the practice, such as we noted in places, of property owners or tenants who, in plowing, fill in drainage gutters and damage the grade of the road. We oppose the use of the roads as a "turn row."

We urge that hereafter in construction of paved roads, the county continue to profit by whatever mistakes have been made in the past. We believe the county officials are alive to the situation and in that connection we wish to urge continual vigilance in watching the things that we believe tend to weaken concrete. That is, mixtures in which there is dirt; mixtures in which there is not enough fine material to go with coarse gravel; weakening of the sub-base. Every effort should be used, wherever there is a paved road, to give perfect drainage, for we are satisfied that many roadways have been softened by seepage. Irrigators who allow water to run upon the high ways are often to blame for the giving away of pavement, inasmuch as in instances water has softened the soil beneath the pavement, thus allowing heavy loads to break the pavement.

We urge that close and immediate attention be given to the edges of pavements. We found places where the shoulders next to the pavement have been worn down from two to six inches. We believe that by keeping these places filled with dirt or gravel a menace to traffic will be eliminated and the edges of the highway will be better protected against breaks and seepage.

We found bridges needing repairs, and are informed by the supervisors that they are aware of the conditions and have taken steps to remedy them.

We believe it advisable for supervisors to enter upon a policy of keeping themselves in close touch with the men having charge of road work in their various jurisdictions.

We found dirt streets in cities in general to be in very poor condition. We urge that city officials give particular attention after each rain to working their city streets. We protest against any policy that any city board may have of allowing dirt streets to remain in bad condition with the hope that the condition of the street may result in property owners taking action toward paving.

We believe any such policy as that to be against the interest of the traveling public.

We believe that a great deal of damage that has been done to the county roads came through traffic that was far heavier than could have been foreseen at the time the roads were built. We believe that it is to the interest of the taxpayers of Orange county that the new county ordinance limiting loads be enforced to the fullest possible extent. For the protection of the taxpayer, the district attorney, sheriff and other law enforcement officers cannot exert too great vigilance in guarding the hauling of excessive loads. We wish to commend the board of supervisors for its activity in the passage of a load limit ordinance and in its leadership in getting that ordinance adopted by practically all of the counties of Southern California.

SCHOOLS

In the schools of the county we found co-operation between the teachers and the supervisors. We also found the needs of the schools cared for as their finances permitted. In some instances, the Parent-Teacher associations are assisting in procuring extra equipment.

In some cases we found that bonds have been voted for the erection of new buildings. In other districts we found new buildings under construction but not yet completed. Where repairs were needed the same has been brought to the attention of the proper authorities and we are assured that same would be cared for.

The school buildings of the county, taken as a whole, seem to be in fairly good condition. Considering the amount of money available for such purposes.

In some buildings we found the light switches unprotected. We would recommend that all switches be inclosed in metal boxes to comply with the state law.

We would recommend that in the future before any new building is erected, all plans submitted by the architect be thoroughly investigated by the board of trustees as to floor space required for class rooms necessary for the need of the community. It is our opinion that better results could thus be obtained for the education of the pupil, and the cost be less on the taxpayer by putting the money into classrooms, rather than carrying out the ideas of some architect for outward appearances.

We also recommend that all doors open outward for the general welfare of the pupils.

JUVENILE HOME

We, the grand jury, having visited the juvenile home and the system of caring for delinquent and dependent children in the county unsatisfactory. In common with the juvenile court authorities, we believe that there should be a separation of delinquents from those who are merely dependent. Therefore,

We recommend the establishment of a county parental school on the property of the county farm. We further recommend the erection of a fireproof building to house the dependent children of the county.

The jury found the interior equipment inadequate in the present home but upon reporting these conditions to the proper authorities, they were immediately remedied.

COUNTY GARAGE

In keeping with its policy of securing immediate results wherever possible, the grand jury has held numerous conferences with the board of supervisors and other county officers. As a result of those conferences an agreement has been reached whereby the supervisors will institute a new and adequate system of looking after the county garage. The fact that the garage has outgrown, through months of continuous development, the old methods of handling its business, is now recognized. We believe that a new method of management under closer supervision by the supervisors will result in giving the taxpayers more safeguards than has hitherto been possible and will result in better service for the county departments using the garage.

COUNTY FARM

We commend the county for its operation of the county farm and hospital and especially wish to commend the officials in charge for their devotion to duty and the success that has attended their work.

We found the patients at the hospital well provided for and contented under the care given to them by the officials in charge. The personnel at touch was everywhere evident. The hospital and farm are well kept and a credit to the county.

COUNTY JAIL

The grand jury commends the action of the board of supervisors in preparing plans for a new county jail. In view of the rapidly increasing population of Orange county we recommend that they adopt the first plans, known as No. 3, as being adapted to take care of the needs of Orange county for many future years.

ROAD SHOWS

The attention of the grand jury having been called to the following facts:

That numerous road shows, traveling through the county, spend from two to five days at a time in some of the communities in the county outside of the incorporated cities;

That they bring into these localities a class of undesirable people who create disturbances;

That they seek and obtain patronage from people who are least able to afford money for the same; and

That with their hands and other attractions, in front of the schools, they detract to a very large extent, the interest of the children from their school work which also causes truancy among the pupils.

In view of the fact that the incorporated cities of the county impose a license tax upon such shows, we recommend that an ordinance be passed by the board of supervisors taxing all shows giving performances in the county outside of incorporated cities.

COUNTY PARK

We wish to commend the action of the board of supervisors for the new improvements that have been made in the county park for the accommodations of the public, whose playground it is.

More attention is being given to the care of the trees that for former years, which we think a good plan. A new county road through the canyon is being built along the south side of the park, which, when completed, will eliminate the numerous crossings of the boulder steven creek and will be quite a scenic drive as well.

NEWPORT HARBOR

Upon examination of the work done in the improvement of Newport harbor, the grand jury feels that expenditures upon the harbor have been well handled. We particularly commend the fact that the work has been done with a very low cost of operation, which is due to the fact that members of the Orange county harbor commission have given a large amount of their time to the work without compensation. The development of the harbor is of great importance to Orange county, we believe, and the project is entitled to every possible encouragement from the people of this county.

BRISTOL STREET SETTLING TANK

We, the grand jury of Orange county, after careful investigation of the conditions that exist at the Bristol street settling tank of the city of Santa Ana, find that the plant, as operated at present, constitutes a public nuisance and we do recommend that proper steps be taken by the city of Santa Ana, to make such disposal of the sewage water and solids that the nuisance may be abated, and

We do further recommend that none of the water diverted from the settling tank be used for irrigation purposes.

We further recommend that the district attorney take the necessary and proper legal steps for the abatement of this nuisance in the event that the city of Santa Ana does not act in the matter.

DELHI DITCH

We, the grand jury of Orange county, after listening to the complaints of a large number of the residents of the Delhi district, are convinced that a public nuisance exists from year to year in the diverting of water from the Santa Ana Sugar company's factory into the Delhi drainage ditch and we recommend that said company be restrained from turning water from the factory into any open ditch, and

We further recommend that the district attorney take the necessary and proper legal steps to abate any such nuisance as may exist.

In view of the fact that there is an effort on the part of citizens in general to adjust their affairs to meet conditions as they are today, we believe city and county officials should make decided efforts toward economic aid along the line.

Every public official ought to use his best efforts to put public business upon a basis that seeks to return to normal conditions as soon as possible, without sacrificing the efficiency of his office. Where the standards of efficiency can be raised by public improvements we are heartily in favor of same.

Dated this 11th day of January, 1922.

Respectfully submitted,
E. B. COLLIER, Foreman,
ELLA G. GOWEN, Secretary.

DAN CUPID STILL FIRES AT SOLDIERS

COBLENZ, Jan. 12.—Winsome German girls continue to make inroads in the American forces in Germany, despite the standing order issued two years ago that enlisted men who married here would be returned to America with their wives on the next army transport.

Every transport with returning troops carries its quota of newlywed, and whenever a troops train leaves Coblenz for Antwerp, the port of embarkation, the flower shops do a splendid business, their customers being chiefly Germans who desire to bestow flowers upon the departing brides, full of anticipation and hope for a wonderful existence in their new homes across the Atlantic.

More than 1000 American soldiers have married in Germany during the last two years and ten months, according to estimates of American officers and German civil officials. Most of the men and their wives already have been sent to the United States.

Many soldiers who desired to marry and remain in the service on this side, took great pains, officers say, to keep the facts from becoming known generally. Officers say some of the soldiers took their prospective brides to unoccupied Germany, and were married there, most of those events having taken place when America and Germany technically, were still at war.

Help the Kidneys Fight That Cold

Doan's Kidney Pills

Colds and grip cause thousands of cases of kidney trouble. In any germ disease the system becomes filled with poisons which the kidneys must filter off. All too often this extra burden weakens the kidneys. Then you have constant backache, headaches and dizziness; you lack ambition, feel dull, nervous and depressed. Don't ignore these warnings! Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Home folks recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

A Santa Ana case: P. G. Etchison, retired merchant, 826 Garfield St., says: "I was troubled off and on with a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and believing that this trouble arose from weak kidneys, I decided to try them. Doan's promptly and thoroughly cured me and I have not felt a trace of the aching or pain in my back since."

Uncle Riley Drives In

"Have you heard the news?" says Uncle Riley. "Now don't smile knowin' like I'm certain it's all over the County. Yes sir, Maw's hired a butler. And it's this way; while we was in George Edgar's Grocery awhile back, she and George was a standin' there convincin' one another that he had the most exclusive china outside of the Orient, the only delicacies of their kind in Orange County, to say nothin' of the regular grocery line. So George, not meanin' any harm, says now that you agree we have reached perfection in footstuffs here, Mrs. Waters, what you need is a butler now to serve them."

"Maw says, 'yes, the food is fit for a king so I guess we should have some one to distribute it at the table. So now he is in our midst and is of about as much use as spavin cure in a auto repair kit. Another feature is that we imported him from foreign parts; Milwaukee, or Peoria,—anyway some town back there in Indiana. We called for him at the train in my superior Chevrolet and comin' home in the rain he admitted that my "motor" was tuned to a perfection, if I would permit him to say it. I replied that I never paid much attention to the tune but I was certain there wasn't an equal takin' 'thar car all through, and the reliable service it give. Like Newt Goodin says, 'You cackle Pashley Company you know how the Chevy lays.'"

"As soon as we got him out to the place he begin inquiren' for the servants' quarters, and I told him I didn't have one but could give him two dimes and a nickel. Well the first evening he was installed with the hired man he was about as popular as a skunk at a Sunday School picnic. I thought at first I'd have to call on C. H. Chapman for some lumber to put him up a special room. Then I thought what a waste of good material on an illusion like him, so I just got some plaster board from them and partitioned him off a boudoir in the farm hands' house."

"The first morning he arrived I heard a faint tapping at the bathroom door and he called and asked if he should valet for me, and lay out my clothes. I asked him which piece of my wearin' apparel had died during the night. He then wanted to know should he help me dress, and I allowed I could rattle into my clothes about the same as usual and if I forgot any buttons to just remind me of it after I got down stairs. And to think of me bein' talked in such a manner when I'm as particular with my dress as I am, and buy only the best clothes that's made for men—from the Wardrobe, most certain."

"Then at the breakfast table I had my mind, heart and appetite all set on a thick, juicy piece of ham I had purchased at the Fourth Street Market. One of Arnold Peek's special cuts, I calls them. Then our man servant wanted to know if we'd have eggs served in the regular manner. I lost patience here and says, yes, shelled and cooked, both, and he took the hint and went out to the culinary department without excusin' himself. Then he asked so many questions about it I took two lumps, took cream, took a dash of paprika, 'till I wished he'd took stricnine before he left home. But the ham and eggs was the redeemin' feature, and as Newt Goodin says, 'You dress the chickens Fourth Street Market, Arnold won't Peek.'"

"Upon inquiren' about his name I found it to be Olstead, and wondered why they hadn't added a V on the front of it,—him bein' so sober like. He also explained that he had enjoyed bad health nearly all his life, and I reckoned that was the reason he took to light work so well. He said he had stomach trouble, and it must have been caused by standin' around watchin' people eat so much, he had butted for. Well, right here I remembered of a box of pills that Fred Parsons had recommended to me one time when I thought I had indigestion. Well, I give Olstead some of these Hollister Stomach and Liver Tablets and I know they must be result producers for he perked up and started actin' somewhat human. They sure are a relief for every ailment there at Parsons' Drug Store."

"Them pills come in handy for the butler and my young nephew both. For while I was into Livestock's a short while ago lookin' over their extensive shootin' artillery I got the young feller a air gun. If handled proper a gun will be a joy to any boy and teach him to be a straight shooter. The gun was a dandy and lived up to all the high specifications of their goods. Well, the nephew must have wanted to aid the new servant's digestion for he filled his gun full of them pills and caught the butler somersaultin' between the side piazza and the hen house. He moved fast enough to aid anybody's digestion provin' the worth of them pills and the gun both."

"I thought of puttin' Olstead to a practical use such as a quiet family chauffeur. Then as I wanted to bring the new International truck, we got of recent from M. Ellist and Co., in town for a load, I thought I'd let him practice on it,—knowin' that it was built so's he or no one else could bust it. Then with that truck I'm not scared of bein' called into Judge Cox's studio for carryin' too much weight on the highway, cause that truck is built to haul capacity loads and still not mire down in the pavement. I call it Teetotaler for it never busts the law. Well our male housekeeper clum up on the seat, selected a nice quiet gear, dropped in his clutch hysterically and we moved off with a jump—backwards."

"Sis's coupe was standin' there alongside of the house and we shoved it clear and started to move into the front room through the side of the wall, and I believe we'd done it for we had that much power, if I hadn't put up such a holler. Olstead said I got him confused by tellin' him to push in the clutch! Let out the clutch! For he couldn't see how throwin' the pedal in was the same as holdin' it out, and the opposite to lettin' it in or releasin' it. So I told him if he was up on automobiles considerable, he must have been buildin' tops on them. Fortunately Sis wasn't at home so we towed her car in to Ham's Garage to have the axle straightened where the truck had sat on it. So Ham, as usual, got on the job and had it did by the time we wanted to get back that night."

"So I hopped in Sis's car and told Olstead to drive the truck out home. I fully expected him to drive off the road and down into a ditch, so I hurried along and got the I. H. C. tractor out of the barn and started up the road in it to look for our butler and my truck. I made a short cut across the field to make time and the way that tractor pulled through that dobeey was a caution, and when it looked like we couldn't get traction we swum. Then right through a fence and up onto the road I rode without never missin' a shot. What else could I expect though from any implement or machinery put out by the I. H. C. people. Why here I've been usin' them for fifty or a hundred years."

"Well sir, I got down the road a piece and here I seen a beam of light flickerin' back and forth across the highway, and pretty soon Olstead drove up awavin' a flashlight back and forth and his head lights plumed out. 'Fortunate indeed sir,' says he, 'that I had this electric candle.' And I thought now, wasn't it, for as soon as I got the truck I long."

went in to the Granger Electric Company and purchased it for some necessary future use. It pays to be prepared, and particularly prepared with electrical goods you can depend on. And in buyin' from Grangers I'm certain of gettin' the best there is, and if they haven't got everythin' there in their store that's illuminated, heated or run by electricity, it's somethin' so new the patent ain't let as yet."

"And havin' them scrape up a old battery and puttin' it in the truck might have caused a real disaster—like gettin' Olstead scratched up or somethin'." So I drove in next day and took the truck around to the Orange County Ignition Works for a battery I knew was a good one; correct in principal and proved through use. Yep, a threaded rubber Willard. And though some of us don't understand what the threaded rubber means, we all know what the name Willard stands for. Just like we know the distributor's name here stands for service."

"After gettin' that matter tended to I drove down to the Bon Ton Bakery and parked the truck there in front. Mr. Gutzmann, the manager, seen me comin' and says, 'That's the way we like to sell our products, by the truckload.' So I says, I can't say that we would use a truck load out home all at once, but if I was to deliver all your baking to them that uses in the neighborhood it would take a truck. And through this quantity in our neighborhood alone, shows the popularity of their bakery products, but we're usin' their bread, pies, cakes, etcetera, and goin' in there to their fountain for ice cream and drinks, just because we all like the quality."

"A feller sees a lot of young people on bicycles around here, and I'd ones too, for that matter. But the other day in passin' a school I never seen so many bicycles in my life, and wondered where they all come from and where they were fixed up at. Well I got to talkin' to Mr. Myrick a few days later about bicycles and the like and it would surprise anybody the number of machines in his care there at Myrick's Cyclery to see that they keep on runnin' proper. He's certainly got a line of bike tires there too, and they come in non skids and long mileage—just as important to a cyclist as to a motorist. Well, here comes Olstead, and I guess I'd better get home before it turns off dark,—so I long."

LARCENY CHARGE LURKS BEHIND GUN THEFT

That three prisoners in the county jail serving a sentence of ten days for alleged vagrancy may find themselves facing a more serious charge, that of larceny, before their term expires, was hinted this afternoon by City Marshal Sam Jernigan, who said that an investigation now under way might link the prisoners with the theft of a Buick car belonging to Ralph W. Cole, R. D. 7, Santa Ana.

The three prisoners are John Edwards, 21; B. E. Edwards, 25; and George Stern, 20. They were sentenced late yesterday by Justice Leo Goepfer of Balboa after City Marshal J. A. Porter of Newport Beach had found them, it was alleged, attempting to sell a Remington shotgun, identified as having been taken from Cole's car.

The automobile was found early yesterday in a ditch on South Main street near the Edison sub-station after having disappeared from this city the previous evening.

The shotgun had been in the car when it was stolen. Possession of the gun might not necessarily mean theft of the automobile itself, Jernigan pointed out, but offers strong suspicion of that crime.

Jernigan and Porter are making an investigation of the case.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT RETURNED MACHINE

C. C. and G. R. Jones, Fullerton automobile dealers, objected to having Walter E. Smith and B. A. Smith return to them an Oakland car which the Smiths bought last June for a price of $1,627 and which they gave back to the dealers November 30. Accordingly, the Joneses filed suit today in superior court against the Smiths, alleging that title to the car had passed to the defendants and they therefore had not returned the machine.

The plaintiffs asked judgment for $1,000.00, which they alleged remained unpaid on the purchase price, also $100 attorney fees.

LIQUOR CASE APPEAL COMES UP TOMORROW

Max Salscheider, proprietor of the Liberty grill, at Anaheim, is scheduled to come before Superior Judge Z. B. West in department one of the superior court tomorrow at 1 p. m. for hearing on a charge of selling liquor.

Salscheider appealed from a judgment of Justice J. S. Howard, at Anaheim, where he was fined $300, following his arrest during a raid by representatives of the Anaheim police department and the sheriff's office, some weeks ago.

POSTPONE HEARING
C. H. Whitesell, whose preliminary hearing on a charge of non-support was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon before Justice J. B. Cox was not required to appear, the hearing having been continued to January 20.

CHARGE VAGRANCY
Henry Brown, Frank Burns and Ricky Malone, charged with vagrancy, were in the county jail today, awaiting an appearance before City Recorder W. F. Heathman. They were arrested by Patrolmen Ryan and Combs.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 50c.

SUES WOMAN DRIVER FOR DAMAGES ARISING FROM AUTO COLLISION

James A. Warden was plaintiff today in a damage suit for $16,468 filed in superior court against Mrs. Minerva Christensen, a doctor.

Warden bases the action on damages which he claims to have sustained as a patient of Mrs. Christensen, who he said was treating him for cancer. He asked $15,000 damages for personal injuries and $1486 for expense of treatment.

A. S. BRADFORD NAMED PORT BOARD MEMBER

A. S. Bradford, prominent Placentia banker, today qualified as a member of the Orange county harbor commission.

Bradford was appointed by the board of supervisors late Tuesday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. W. Duckworth, of Anaheim. He filed his bond today with County Clerk J. M. Backs.

HELD FOR TRIAL ON CHARGE OF NEGLECT

Harry C. Calkins was this afternoon held to answer by Justice J. B. Cox on a charge of failure to provide for two minor children. He was at liberty while awaiting trial in superior court, under $500 bail, which had been previously posted.

It was shown in court by Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin that Calkins had violated an order recently issued when his wife was granted a divorce in the superior court that he pay $50 a month for the support of the wife's children, who are in the custody of her parents.

Calkins made the defense that inasmuch as the children were being cared for elsewhere he was not required to look after their welfare. Attorney Walter Eden appeared as counsel for the defense.

DEFENDANT WINS SUIT OVER SEAL BEACH LAND

Phil A. Stanton had been returned a winner today in the civil action filed against him by the Alamitos Land company which was concluded late yesterday before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams. The court upheld Stanton's title to 247 acres of tideland near Seal Beach. The issue at conflict in this property, the plaintiff claiming that present survey lines outlining the boundaries were incorrectly located.

BRING ACCUSED BOYS HERE TO ENTER PLEA

George Rhoads and Cecil J. Parker, two boys accused of stealing an auto from Louis Sheats of Tustin, were in the county jail today awaiting arraignment on a charge of grand larceny. They were turned over to Sheriff C. E. Jackson yesterday by Los Angeles authorities who arrested them there.

Fred Sever, real estate dealer, has sold his residence at 134 West Ninth street and has started the erection of a new residence on Spurgeon street. The purchaser was W. B. Lockett of Villa Park.

FIRMS HERE WIN CONTRACTS FOR SCHOOL WORK

Three Santa Ana firms were among the successful bidders that were awarded segregated contracts for the erection of the $130,000 high school auditorium at Orange. Award of the contracts was announced today following a meeting of the high school board at Orange last night. The board awarded the heating and ventilating contract to Hill and Son of this city. The bid was $10,982.

The plumbing contract goes to the John McFadden company, at $5311. The electrical contract was awarded the J. G. Robertson Electrical company. The bid was $3,122. Other contracts awarded at the same time included the following: General contract, including iron work, carpentry, excavation and concrete, Daniels & Farris, Pasadena, $60,609. Masonry, H. E. Kner, Los Angeles, $28,885. Plastering, Bert Dequene, Los Angeles, $14,500.

Composition roofing, Warren Bailey company, Los Angeles, $11,182. Tile roofing, C. L. Passmore, Los Angeles, $1,200. Sheet metal, Emil Brown company, Los Angeles, $790.

Hardware, Union Hardware & Metal company, Los Angeles, $1810. The total amount of contracts awarded was $131,414.86. All work must be completed within 200 days, satisfying.

W. C. T. U. DRIVE NETS 50 NEW MEMBERS

A W. C. T. U. membership of more than 50 has been built up in Anaheim in the past two days as the result of an active campaign in that city supervised by the state president, Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler announced here today.

"We fully expect to increase this number to 100 within the next two weeks," said Mrs. Wheeler, discussing the work of herself and her associates in Southern California. "We have received splendid co-operation in Orange county and we feel that our visit has been more than worth while."

The state president reiterated her personal satisfaction, the result of wide observation, that the cigarette evil has not gained a foothold among American women.

"The average American woman has too much common sense to smoke cigarettes," said Mrs. Wheeler. "I think I may safely say that fully 90 per cent of the women of this country do not smoke. Those who do smoke are the faddists. The W. C. T. U. has waged a relentless battle against cigarette smoking, and the results have been more than satisfactory."

FRIENDLY ANSWER IS FILED IN TITLE CASE

Friendly answer was filed today in superior court by the General Petroleum corporation to the petition of various Orange county property owners for registration of land under the Torrens title act, the case being known under the name of Harry Harlan Covell.

The answer refers to the property of one of the petitioners, Wilfred Gysell, who is the owner of forty acres near Cypress. A lease for oil and gas rights given on this property to C. H. McWilliams in 1919 was later transferred to the General Petroleum corporation. This concern merely desires that the lease and their rights therein be shown in the registration of title.

HOLDS ONE DRINK NOT DAMAGING TO DRIVER

A charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor had been dismissed today in the case of D. Green, of Garden Grove, whose preliminary examination was held late yesterday before Justice J. B. Cox.

The court ruled that there was insufficient evidence to support the charge.

Green was defended "at the hearing by Attorney Clyde Bishop.

The defendant, who was arrested later by Constable J. M. Clark of Garden Grove, admitted that he had taken a swallow of Jamaica ginger on the morning of the day he was arrested, but stated that he was not intoxicated.

LAY AUTO THEFT TO MAN NABBED AFTER WRECK

James Parnell, held in custody here on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, is wanted at Riverside on a charge of embezzlement, in connection with the disappearance of an Overland car belonging to Mrs. Charlotte E. Burt, according to word that Sheriff C. E. Jackson received here today from Sheriff F. P. Wilson of Riverside county.

Parnell will be held in Orange county, however, to be prosecuted on the charge brought against him here, following an accident in the Santa Ana canyon above Olive last Tuesday night, when Parnell was rescued by officers from beneath his Overland car at the bottom of a twenty-five foot embankment.

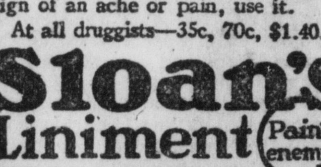

Parnell has a wife and baby in destitute circumstances in Santa Ana. It was learned, when they appeared late yesterday at the jail.

NEW WINTER SPORT.

QUEBEC, Jan. 12.—Still another feature has been added to the wide range of the far-famed winter sports of the old French capital. The Canadian Pacific hotel, Chateau Frontenac, round which centers Quebec's winter festivities, has recently brought from the country north of Lake Nipigon, five husky dogs, considered one of the fastest teams in that part of the country. They are being further trained by an expert "musher" and will be available for any guest at the Chateau Frontenac desirous of taking a run in the conveyance of trapper and hunters—the dog sleigh.

TO SPEND $6000 IN ALTERATIONS ON FOURTH ST. STORE ROOM

Cherry Blossom Proprietor to Install Two Banquet Halls In Building

ARCHITECT HAS PLANS

Rear of Present Building to Have Additional Story Extending to East

That Clyde Alling, proprietor of the Cherry Blossom, 120 East Fourth street, is preparing to expend $6000 in making improvements in his store, was disclosed today with announcement by W. W. Kays that he is preparing plans for proposed alterations and additions.

Alling expects to have the work under way within thirty days. When the improvements are completed he will have banquet room facilities for entertaining parties numbering as high as one hundred persons.

The plans contemplate the location of a row of mahogany booths along the west wall of the present dining room. The wall on the east side of the room separating the dining room from the kitchen will be set back a few feet and a stairway arranged to lead to two banquet halls to be located in the second story. One of the banquet halls will be provided by building the second story back to the alley line and over the kitchen. At present the kitchen is only one story.

The second banquet hall will be developed from a part of the present second story. One will have accommodations for sixty persons and the other for forty, being arranged so that they may be thrown into one when occasion requires.

"I am proposing the improvements to meet the demand of my patrons," declared Alling today. "The new banquet halls will offer convenient places for private parties of a social or business nature and a service that I am certain will be appreciated."

MAY PURCHASE PUBLIC PARK FOR PASADENA

PASADENA, Jan. 12.—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce adopted resolutions urging the city director to call a special election to vote on a bond issue of $200,000 to buy the so-called Carmelita tract at the northeast corner of Orange Grove avenue and Colorado street as a public park and civic center tract.

The grounds, comprising thirteen acres, was one of the great residential estates of Pasadena and two years ago was bought by the California Hotel company, which at that time had in mind a bungalow hotel for the property. That plan has been given up. If the city does not buy it the tract will be cut up into building lots.

Thirty-two-Acre Grove In Santa Ana Canyon Purchased for $96,000

Stanley Visel, son of former Mayor and Mrs. A. J. Visel, has completed negotiations for the purchase of thirty-two acres of orange land in Santa Ana canyon from Antoine Borchard, of Groenewille. The consideration is reported at $96,000.

Borchard accepted a twenty-acre walnut grove in the Pomona district at $30,000 as part payment.

The orange grove in the canyon is part of the tract owned by the late J. A. Turner, founder and cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank, merged three years ago with the First National bank.

Papers transferring this tract from Mrs. Thomas Inch, daughter of the late banker, to Borchard, had just been completed when negotiations for its purchase by Visel were started. Papers in the latter transaction are now being prepared.

C. M. McCain, real estate dealer, was the agent in both transactions. It is said that Borchard is passing title at an advanced price.

A. B. WATSON SECURES SLABAUGH RESIDENCE BY SALE FOR $15,000

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, has sold his fine home property at 1618 North Broadway to A. B. Watson, of the Crown stage. The consideration is not made public but is understood to have been around $15,000.

Dr. Slabaugh will give possession in sixty days from date of sale. Immediately following disposition of the place he started building on his ten-acre Valencia ranch on First street, Tustin, acquired about a year ago.

The tract is part of the Maury place, and includes the residence east of the James S. Rice home, formerly occupied by the Mauryes. The purchase was made from Mrs. Nellie E. Maury. It has a frontage of 700 feet on First street.

Slabaugh is building an eight-room house of the colonial type. He does not expect to have it completed by the date upon which he will have to surrender his Broadway house.

ALLEGES GRAFT IN L. A. HARBOR DEPT.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Plunging deeply into alleged mismanagement and misconduct of the affairs of the harbor department, the civil service commission brought sensational charges to light when it refused to take Walter H. Mitchell, bookkeeper under suspension from the harbor payroll.

Following are some of the high lights of Mitchell's charges made before the commission during an investigation of his case.

Deckhands alleged to be drawing $6 a day on department launches, being rated as mechanics.

Some of these craft alleged to have three captains, each drawing more than $200 a month and board.

Men alleged to be given overtime simply to increase their pay.

Clerks said to be classified as carpenters to give them higher pay.

Four municipal launches at San Pedro cost $2,000 a month although they are only used four hours a day.

PAY $8,250 FOR MACHINE SHOP LOCATION

Former Owner Invests Proceeds of Sale In House at 810 Ross Street

Frank L. Andrews, secretary of the board of education and manager of the Powers Manufacturing company, this week developed into a "lightning change artist," for he sold his residence at 701 East Fourth street and bought a new house at 810 South Ross. He expects to move into the latter next week.

His property on East Fourth street consists of a two-story house and a lot with fifty-foot frontage on Fourth and depth of 125 feet along Porter. The purchasers are Richards Brothers, proprietors of Richards Brothers' Machine shop at 712 East Fourth street. The consideration is reported by one of the brothers to have been $8,250.

A member of the firm stated today that the lot had been acquired with a view to the erection of a modern machine shop building when the lease on the firm's present location expires, which will be about a year and a half from this date.

The residence on the corner will be rented until such time as the lot will be needed for the contemplated building improvement.

Andrews bought his new house from M. R. Honinger, through the agency of Carden, Leibig and Seaman. It contains eight rooms and has been recently completed. The consideration is reported to have been around $9,000.

BUILDING BRIEFS

PASADENA—A boys' gymnasium, costing from $35,000 to $40,000, will be built at once at Pasadena high school, the board of education having today authorized the construction of it. The building will be paid for out of the high school building fund. The structure will be similar to the girls' gymnasium built last year. It will be situated in the southeast corner of the school grounds, near the athletic field bleachers. The building will be built by day labor under the school district's direction.

SAN FRANCISCO—Charles Sutro, owner of the Cliff house property, announces that a contract has been let involving $50,000 for improvements in the Cliff house building and remodeling of the present restaurant facilities. This work will be done at the present time and the contractors are to start within thirty days. The remodeling of the Cliff house, together with the new Cliff house road that will shortly be completed, will give San Francisco's one remaining landmark additional advantages.

SAN PEDRO—Building construction here in 1922 will exceed the $3,000,000 mark of 1921 by more than 100 per cent, according to William P. Durr, architect of the Charles P. Durr company. The firm is now engaged in preparing plans for four building projects at the harbor to cost $225,000. Plans have already been prepared or are now being drawn for nearly $1,500,000 worth of business blocks, hotels and residences at the harbor, it was learned.

SELECT BRENTWOOD SQUARE AS BEST NAME SUBMITTED FOR TURNER'S NEW SUBDIVISION

CONTENDS RIVER DAM NOT BEST SOLUTION

Samuel Armer of Orange, for many years a director of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company, declares that the building of a dam across the Santa Ana river cannot be done successfully.

He believes control of the Santa Ana river lies in working out a system of small diversion dams, the spreading of waste water on waste places and the construction of check dams.

His views on the matter are set forth in a communication received by The Register. His communication follows:

Guaranteed Cure For Floods and Drouths:

About Christmas the following letter was received on the subject of Floods and Drouths:

Dear Mr. Armer:

The recent heavy rains, with consequent high water in the Santa Ana river and its tributaries, following as it did several years of deficient rainfall, remind us more forcefully than words can of the necessity of conserving these waters rather than to allow them to run off in floods and thereby cause damage.

Our organization has been inactive for the past year. We cannot remain stationary. We must go forward or backward. It occurred to the writer that it would be a good idea for the sub-committee of each county to get together immediately and ascertain public sentiment from each county which they represent as to the advisability of proceeding to organize a comprehensive flood control and conservation district of the entire Santa Ana river watershed under laws now on the statute books. The public sentiment in the different counties, as ascertained by this means, would be presented at the next meeting of the Committee to be held January 12, 1922.

No outside speaker has been invited to address the Committee, but let us have one member from each county and then every member give his idea of what should be done. We will appreciate your co-operation to make this meeting one which will reflect the sentiment on this great question. Wishing you a Merry Christmas and happy and prosperous New Year, I am,

Francis Cuttle, Chairman
Tri-County Reforestation Committee.

A few days after the receipt of the foregoing letter, an article prepared by C. E. Utt of Tustin, appeared in a number of the county papers, unfolding a plan for storing the floods and utilizing the water for irrigation, which plan was guaranteed by the author to cure the troubles caused by these two extremes.

Still later another article appeared in the local paper, signed W. L. Hinrichs, in which the writer says, "Mr. Utt's suggestion has been the first to be advanced and if it does nothing more than start a general discussion it will have been of great benefit."

The water question, both as to floods and drouths, has been under general discussion in Southern California for forty-seven years to my certain knowledge and J. E. Pleasant, in an interview in The Register, tells of the floods of 1862 and 1867, the latter causing a break through an irrigation ditch from the San Gabriel River to form New River. The irrigators that have formed companies before and since those dates, as well as the riparian landowners, have intermittently discussed the floods and

"Brentwood Square" today was chosen by Ashby Turner as the official name for his new subdivision on Orange avenue.

This name, selected from 250 suggestions sent in by those who were contenders for the $25 prize offered by Turner, was contributed by W. H. Cleveland, 410 East Sixth street, this city.

"My reasons for the suggestion are as follows," said Cleveland in his letter submitting the name:

"First, Brentwood immediately suggests exclusiveness and distinction, and reflects the general high character of the tract.

"Second, Brentwood appropriately describes the wooded nature of the tract and its surroundings, and suggests life and growth. This is directly opposite from the barrenness of the average new tract placed on the market.

"Third, Brentwood is easy to say, easy to pronounce, easy to spell, and cannot be confused with any other name or section of the city.

"Fourth, Brentwood sums up my idea of what such a name should be—exclusive, descriptive, suggestive, and distinctive."

Turner and his associates agreed with Cleveland and he was awarded the $25.

"I wish to thank all those who so kindly submitted suggestions," said Turner. "So many replies were received and so many appropriate names were suggested, that a decision was reached only after mature deliberation."

To expend $24,000
Turner, who will spend about $24,000 in making improvements on the tract, said today that interest was kept in the new subdivision and six lots have already been sold. There are fifty-six lots in the tract, eight of which face on Orange avenue. Twenty-four lots front Normandie Place, with an equal number fronting on Beverly Place.

In making clear that the price of the lots will advance substantially when the ornamental lights are turned on, Turner advised all who were interested to secure options on the lots of their choice while the present prices prevail. These prices vary from $350 to $2,750 a lot.

Building Restrictions
"Substantial home builders are the ones who are buying the lots in Brentwood Square," said Turner, "and the sale is conspicuous by the absence of the speculator. The subdivision will be one of the prettiest in Orange county, as building restrictions will eliminate the possibility of garage houses or stores. On those lots located east of the Pacific Electric tracks no residence can be built costing less than $2,500. West of the tracks no residence costing less than $3,500 can be erected."

Turner said that the sidewalks, curbing and pavements will be finished within 60 days, unless present plans miscarry. Turner will pay the cost of operation for the ornamental lighting system for one year, after which time other arrangements will be made for continuing the service.

BRICKLEY MAY COACH 'BIG TEN' GRIDDERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Charley Brickley, former Harvard football star, is here investigating the coaching proposition at Northwestern university.

Brickley coached Johns Hopkins in 1916 and in 1917 and 1918 he was mentor at Boston college.

JOE LYNCH SEEKING BANTAMWEIGHT CROWN

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Joe Lynch has offered to fight Johnny Buff for the bantam title and let the champion take the entire purse.

PURCHASE LOT IN ANTICIPATION OF GROWTH

S. R. Sender, proprietor of the Smart Shop, this city, and L. D. Lipsy, of Los Angeles, have purchased the lot on North Broadway, near Second, now occupied by a corrugated iron building under lease to the Used Car Sales company, managed by Harry Warburton. The purchase was made from Charles Coatt, note clerk at the First National bank. The sale was handled by the agency of Wallace and Goode.

Sender declared today that he and his associate made the purchase in anticipation of North Broadway soon becoming an active business center and that they are prepared to erect a business building whenever there is demand for it.

"The future of Santa Ana looks bright to me and I expect to see the city develop into one of the largest and best cities in all Southern California," said Sender. "Prices on close in business lots today are low as compared with what they will be in five years from now, in my opinion, particularly property located as the lot we have purchased. Since entering business here I have become greatly impressed by the possibilities of this section and am convinced that we are going to experience a rapid enlargement of the business district."

Sender has evidenced his faith in Santa Ana by purchasing other city property, among his important purchases being a four-flat building at 819 West Fourth street, purchased two months ago.

SANTA ANA TO SEND BIG DELEGATION TO SECURE CONVENTION

With interest increasing in the proposal of the Santa Ana Realty board to bring the state convention of the California Real Estate association to Santa Ana in 1923, the probable delegation to the annual convention in San Francisco the latter part of next week is increasing in number daily.

Dealers in different parts of the county, who did not anticipate attending, are said to be making arrangements to be present to boost for Santa Ana as the convention city for next year.

The active men of the Santa Ana board are putting forth every effort to secure a strong representation at the convention to assist in putting the project over.

Santa Ana is being backed by all Southern California boards except that in Pasadena, according to J. C. Wallace, secretary of the local board. Pasadena may become a contender for the honor of entertaining the convention next year.

The 1923 convention is due to come south, as it is the custom to alternate between the northern and southern parts of the state in selection of the convention city.

Repairs were in order today on a show window at the Madame Louise hat shop, where a large plate glass window was broken out, presumably by the wind, last night.

AUTO ACCESSORY PLANT WILL BE IN OPERATION HERE WITHIN TEN DAYS

Farr-Hart Mfg. Co. Expects to Employ 25 Mechanics
When Factory Opens

ORDERS WAIT SHIPMENTS

Santa Ana's Newest Industry Located In New Building
at 1101 E. First St.

With nearly all machinery installed and active preparations under way for the opening of the plant, George D. Hartlett announced today that the new automobile accessory manufacturing plant of the Farr-Hart Manufacturing Co. probably would be in operation within the next ten days. The plant, which is housed in a beautiful new structure at 1101 East First street, will specialize in the manufacture of headlights, spotlights, gears, brakes, semaphores, etc.

"We will begin operations with 25 men employed," said Hartlett today, "but our work requires skilled mechanics of the highest order, and we have had some trouble in finding the men we need for our specialties. Although all machinery has not yet been installed, every indication points to immediate production."

"Shipments will begin within the next three weeks, if all goes well, and we will soon be doing a nationwide business. We will turn out a number of high-class accessories, not useless, unnecessary things, but parts that are essential and used on all standard automobiles."

"There is a good demand for high class accessories, such as we will manufacture at our Santa Ana plant, and we will ship our product to all parts of the United States. Many orders already have been received, but actual production has been delayed because of the late arrival of the necessary machinery. Everything is now in good shape, however, and our men should be able to begin operations within ten days."

"We will add to our force from time to time and may find it necessary to bring other skilled mechanics from the East. We need good men, but find they are hard to get. If necessary to keep good men we will build homes here for them."

"SELLING RECORD" OF PVT. HOPPE GROWS

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 12.—Further swindling operations of Private Herman Hoppe, U. S. M. C., who "sold" the cruiser USS Arizona to Chinese revolutionaries and several thousand army shirts to the Russian government, were revealed here today by marine corps authorities.

According to word from Manila, Hoppe contracted to deliver to a Manila exporting firm several hundred bales of carabao skins. He received $500 in cash and traveling expenses to Cebu. The Manila firm never received a single hide.

Marine corps authorities here say Hoppe began his swindling feats seven years ago, when he "sold" the marine barracks at Philadelphia for conversion into a hotel. Hoppe was convicted and served on year's imprisonment for this offense.

Look Up!

There has always been something inexplicably fascinating to me about steeples—whether they be those of a church or school—or what not.

A town doesn't look like a town without its steeples. Stevenson once wrote that his "favorite kind of mountain scenery" was found in the admiration he had for great cathedrals.

A man couldn't be much of a pessimist and an admirer of steeples at the same time. For, you see, he would have to look up to see them. And pessimists look down!

And in the case of a great cathedral, how the spires play among themselves—never quarreling.

We are lost spirits in a strange world when we fail to be uplifted by the evidences of aspiration made a reality all about us, such as in the reaching steeples which are appreciated by so few.

I talk with many people and see imaginary steeples pointing up through their words and attitude. Somehow, the big God manages to plant in the hearts of some people a kind of power that doesn't let them fail. He builds steeples right up through their daily aspirations—and they win in spite of everything.

If you were in New York City and would walk down Broadway and stand at the corner of Wall Street and look into the face of that inspiring steeple that makes the old Trinity Church so notable a structure, you would understand steeples anew.

The great skyscraper buildings almost bury this historic building. But there it stands in all its beauty and dignity—its spire pointing upward to greater things than all the mammoth fortunes made about its lap.

When we look upward, we touch the lines of infinity. Our vision is made over and we find the fingers of perpetual hope which interlock with ours—and we smile because we believe and have confidence.

CONTENDS RIVER DAM NOT IDEAL SOLUTION

drouths, as also have the different companies with each other. Some of this discussion has been held in the courts, supported by expert testimony as to facts and rights. The Tri-County Reforestation Committee, consisting of twelve members from each of the three counties interested in the waters of the Santa Ana River, put an end to the litigation between the companies taking water out of the river and has been working harmoniously for more than a dozen years for the good of all the people within the basin of the stream, which comprises the better part of the three counties.

While that committee, with the federal, state, county and water company aid granted it, has done more for the good of the valley than the people generally realize, yet the pressure for retraction in all these departments threatens the committee's support when greater improvements are needed to store the floods. To guard against this loss and provide other means for carrying on the work, the committee secured the passage by the Legislature of a conservancy act which would enable the three counties to join in the formation of a conservancy district of all that portion of the basin of the stream lying within the boundaries of each county.

When the committee started to form the district, the act was found unconstitutional in at least two particulars; so, as Mr. Cuttle says, "Our organization has been inactive for the past year. We cannot remain stationary. We must go forward or backward." In the same letter, he speaks about forming a district "under laws now on the statute books," as though the defects in the former law had been cured. But I have been unable to satisfy myself on that point.

The act nearest to the committee's purpose is the one for the formation of Water Storage Districts commencing on page 1727 of Statutes of California of 1921 and continuing on to page 1769. This act is long and cumbersome and links the district up with the state engineer as the chief authority with two executive directors appointed by the Governor. One of the indictments against the Works Bill was putting the local management of the water into the hands of a commission at Sacramento. There being nothing said about the district as a subdivision of the State, the property qualification for voting would not be objectionable. Land owners in the cities would also be allowed to vote which would be fair. Since the supervisors would have nothing to do with the district, the objection to spending county money outside the county could not be raised. The bill does not seem to provide any protection against floods other than the water storage would do.

The Orange County members of the Tri-County Committee met in the local water office Saturday afternoon and decided they would recommend that the committee ask advice of Federal hydrographers as to the best method to proceed and then see if the three counties can get together on the plan advised.

Instead of commenting directly on Mr. Utt's plan for storing the floods, I will mention some fundamental facts and established principles that have been evolved by the discussions of the past, which should underlie every plan for water-control.

All the water that falls within the basin of a stream belongs to the lands within that basin and cannot fairly be taken over the watershed into the basin of another stream. A. B. Clark, Henri P. Gardner, J. W. Anderson and others embodied the principle, that water is appurtenant to the land, in the Articles of Incorporation of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company in 1877. E. E. Keech at my request, prepared an amendment to Section 324 C. C., providing for the transfer of the water-right in the deed as an appurtenance to the land.

In a conversation shortly before noon on the day of his death, he told me he expected to win a water suit at Hemet with that amended section of the law. It is, therefore, up to the land owners in the basin of any stream in the State to conserve and distribute the waters of such stream among themselves and no outside capitalists can interfere unless said landowners themselves fritter away their rights. This appurtenance principle is an extension of the long established law of riparian rights, so as to include all the lands in the basin of a stream within those rights, so far as they may be able to utilize them.

The Creator endowed man with reason instead of instinct, and gave him various materials in their crude form for him to shape and utilize for his support and comfort. The natural conditions of the Santa Ana River should be taken into account, and only such methods for the control of its waters be applied as will seem reasonable to fairly well informed people. It has long been conceded by experts that conditions are not favorable for building a permanent dam of any great height across that stream. Outside the rock-ribbed mountains, the territory, through which the river and its tributaries pass on their way to the sea, is composed of disintegrated rock, gravel, sand and sediment brought down from the mountains and spread abroad by the river itself, and covered later by a few feet of vegetable mold. The whole heterogeneous mass is almost as easily dissolved and washed away as so much ashes would be. Nowhere in its lower course has the stream rock bottom and rock banks to build a dam upon or the one to.

The tri-counties committee, knowing these conditions, has not advocated a large dam across the river to raise the water to a great height; but it has been diverting more or less of the floods to debris cones and waste lands to sink into gravel strata and find their way to lower levels later in the season. Check dams have been successfully used in tributaries to hold back the peak of a flood and deliver the water more gradually with no damage therefrom. The committee has also aided in the prevention and extinction of forest fires in the mountains, thereby protecting the watershed near the sources of the stream. Other fundamental facts and well established principles might be mentioned, but time and space forbid.

The Santa Ana River is generally acknowledged to be one of the best streams in the southern part of the State and belongs absolutely to the lands within its basin. Without the river these lands would be worthless—a desert waste; but with it they are among the most productive and valuable in the world. The river, like a good piece of machinery, if well cared for and properly directed, becomes a means of support and pleasure; but if it is neglected and misused, it becomes a burden and an engine of destruction. Will the landowners of these three counties form a conservancy district and make this river a minister of beneficence and helpfulness to themselves and all about them?

—SAMUEL ARMOR.

NOTICE OF ELECTION. Pursuant to law and an order of the Board of Education of the City of Santa Ana, as the governing body of Santa Ana School District of Orange County, California:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Education of the City of Santa Ana, as the governing body of Santa Ana School District of Orange County, California, and whose members are hereunto signed, at a regular meeting thereof held on the 14th day of January, 1922, in Santa Ana School District of Orange County, California, an election for the purpose of submitting to the electors of the district the question whether the bonds of said district in the sum of $250,000.00 be issued and sold for the purpose of raising money for purchasing school lots, for building two school buildings, to wit: school houses and for supplying said school buildings with furniture and necessary apparatus and making alterations and additions to school buildings.

The amount of $250,000.00 to be represented by 250 bonds, numbered from 1 to 250, both inclusive, each bond in the denomination of $1,000.00, bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, and payable semi-annually. The said 250 bonds to be paid ten (10) bonds each year after their date in successive numerical order, so that the interest of said bonds be paid in twenty-five years. The principal and interest of said bonds be paid in gold coin of the United States. The purpose for which the election is ordered and for which it will be held on the 17th day of January, 1922, is to submit to the electors of Santa Ana School District of Orange County, California, the question whether the bonds of said district shall be issued and sold in the sum of $250,000.00 for the purpose of raising money for purchasing school lots, for building two school buildings, to wit: school houses and for supplying said buildings with furniture and necessary apparatus and making alterations and additions to school buildings.

For the purpose of holding the election called and ordered to be held, Santa Ana School District of Orange County, California, has been and is subdivided into six (6) special election precincts, and for that purpose the voting precincts at and within the city of Santa Ana (the boundaries of which city are identical with the boundaries of the school district) as such precincts were established by the Board of Supervisors of the county of Orange, State of California, for the purpose of holding general elections, and as the same existed at and for the general election in the year A. D. 1920, have been and are continued into six special election precincts, and numbered special election precincts from 1 to 6, both inclusive, as follows:

In each special election precinct a polling place has been and is designated and established and officers of election are appointed to hold, conduct, and make returns of the election, consisting of one inspector, and two judges, each of whom is a qualified elector in one of the precincts comprising the special election precinct which he or she is appointed, and as follows:

Special election precinct No. 1 consists of general election precincts of the City of Santa Ana as above specified, Nos. 1-2-3-4-23 and 31, which constitutes that part of the school district embraced within the first ward of the City of Santa Ana. The polling place in and for special election precinct No. 1 has been and is established at Junior High School Building, located at the corner of North Main and Ninth Streets, in the City of Santa Ana, and the election officers to hold, conduct, and make returns of the bond election held therein are: Inspector—Nathan A. Beals; Judge—Florence Harvey; Judge—Beasie Hill.

Special election precinct No. 2 consists of general election precincts of the City of Santa Ana as above specified, Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 30, which constitutes that part of the school district embraced within the second ward of the City of Santa Ana. The polling place in and for special election precinct No. 2 has been and is established at Roosevelt School Building, located at the corner of Fourteenth and Second Streets, in the City of Santa Ana, and the election officers to hold, conduct, and make returns of the bond election held therein are: Inspector—H. H. May; Judge—Mrs. J. H. Cocoran; Judge—Nellie Winslow.

Special election precinct No. 3 consists of general election precincts of the City of Santa Ana as above specified, Nos. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 33, 34, 35, FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

THE BLIZZARD

By Adeline MacGivray

JEAN, Pat said, with a reproachful look on his face, "It isn't a fellow's job to look after babies, and I'd just refuse flat, if it wasn't you that's asking me."

"Well now, that's real nice," replied his sister soothingly as she pinned on her veil. "I hope you'll both be good."

"I wouldn't mind some of the other beaux that hang around here," went on Pat, "but that Carson fellow I can't stand. Little skinny sissy! Besides he's a teacher! I never thought you'd take up with a teacher!"

Pat only laughed.

"Wait till you're twenty instead of twelve, and you'll know a lot more," she said. "We're going to drive through Longacre Valley and will be back very soon."

Pat waved them goodbye from the front window, and noticed what a hard time Carson had cranking his driver. It was a very cold day, and Jean's cheeks were very pink. Pat was fond of his sister, who had been a second mother to him and little Paul since their own mother had died two years before. He was fond and grateful but he hated to be left to mind the baby.

"I'd rather be scared to death than bored to death," he muttered as he turned from the window, and his remark sounded quite fine to him, so he said it again and even wrote it on the edge of a magazine.

Baby was asleep and the house very quiet. It was still outside too, and the light looked yellow. Rover scratched at the door and when he was let in, he sniffed about anxiously and barked as loudly as he dared. Pat got restless too and wandered aimlessly to the porch. Whew! It was cold! The wind was rising, and how it cut!

"Geel!" exclaimed Pat, as he backed into the house. "I hope Jean will enjoy her ride in that little flivver!"

He went down and tended the furnace, which helped while away a little time, and when he came up again and glanced out of the window he saw only whiteness.

"A blizzard, by golly!" he cried, rushing to the window. "Poor Jean! I hope that poor fish will have sense enough to get her to a safe place. Guess she'll 'phone pretty soon. Gee, I hope she will!"

He peered anxiously out while Rover whined at his feet. The big silent flakes fell fast, driven slantwise by the keen wind and covering every landmark. Pat had a horrid feeling of being buried deep, deep, and cut off from everybody and everything in the midst of the stifling whiteness.

Suddenly he thought of their cow, Floss, and the old horse, once a favorite of his mother's and now an old pensioner of the family. "The window near Old Harry's stall is open," he thought. "I ought to fasten it tight, and I'd better water and feed both him and Floss now while the baby's asleep."

He put on his warm jacket and cap, but not his gloves. His boots were in the barn, but it was only a few feet from the house. Whew! When he opened the back door a gust nearly blew him off his feet, and it seemed as if a great angry ogre had thrown a bucketful of snow violently in his face.

He laughed, though. It was lots of fun. Out into the blizzard he dashed headed straight for the barn. He ought to reach it in a minute or two. How queer! He certainly ran far enough yet the barn wasn't there.

ran as hard as he could. He ran and ran, a deadly sinking feeling in his stomach. Then he had to tell himself: "The house is gone too!" The cold was biting at his feet and through his very bones. He turned desperately to the left and ran. This time he ran into something. He felt it with his numb hands. It was straw.

"Oh, now I know!" he exclaimed. "This is that old rick near the barn. Now if I go to the right, I'll reach the barn."

But he went to the right but there was no barn. The white flakes cut his face and swirled around him like mad imps in a dance of triumph. They seemed to cry: "Now we've got you!" He remembered stories of people being frozen to death right on their own doorsteps in storms like this. He tried to think calmly, but thinking didn't do any good. "I'd better keep moving. I won't lose heart. I must courage and he burrowed in and found a stick which he had put there himself some weeks before. With the stick he made a deep furrow in the snow as he walked to the right of the rick, but when he tried to retrace his steps, the furrow was all covered up. But he went on trying and dug deeper.

He had been out in the blizzard an hour and a numbness was stealing over him. Some of the pain and cold was sinking away, but he knew that this was the worst sign. He goaded himself on, and shouted for help. First it was "Help!" Then the grip of the blizzard tightened and he began to call: "Jean! Jean!" and then: "Mother!" His father was far away on a business trip, and, of course, his mother was in heaven, but she seemed to him then in that moment of despair.

His feet were like lead and even his legs did not feel like flesh and bone. His knees gave way under him and he sank down sobbing in the snow. How long he lay he did not know, but suddenly he felt disturbed. He did not want to be disturbed. He felt warm and peaceful and it seemed as if his mother's kind arms were around him. Then the next thing he felt was a terrible pain in his feet and hands. He opened his eyes groaning and found himself in the kitchen of his home.

"You're safe, my boy," said the young man soothingly. "Your hands and feet are badly frosted but you must let me rub on snow."

"Where's Jean?" asked Pat, weakly. "She's all right," explained Carson. "We only drove to Smith's because it got so threatening, and Jean tried to phone you after the blizzard started but she couldn't get you, so I insisted on coming to see what was wrong, and I'm mighty glad I did."

Pat sat up and tried to grip his rescuer's hand with his own numb hands. "I owe you my life," he said. "I can't thank you enough, but I'll always be your faithful friend. You're a brick, sir! Wait till I see Jean, and I'll tell her what a fine fellow you are!"

But Carson only smiled and said: "That's all right, old man." But he looked as if he would like to say more.

THE JUNIOR COOK

CARROTS WITH PEPPERS

Scrap and slice six large carrots. Put on to boil with 1 pint of water.

As soon as the water is boiling reduce the heat so that the carrots keep boiling but do not run any risk of boiling dry.

Cook about 35 minutes. Wash and chop into small pieces or strips 2 large sweet mangoes.

Add to the cooking carrots and cook 15 minutes longer.

Season with $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful salt. Serve at once with melted butter.

This is a very tasty way to use some of the last left overs from a late garden. Any left over makes a tasty salad the next day.

tending and her woods were the nearest to a forest she had ever seen. Munching at her apple, she wandered into the woods. Passed the place where she and her friend Ellen played house; passed the place where the rabbits had a nest, passed the pile of boulders and the tiny creek where the family sometimes had a picnic supper, and into the far end of the woods where she seldom went. And then she sat down to finish her apple and cookies and to decide just what she should do next. The winter sun looked so red and beautiful in the west, the oak trees, that keep their leaves most of the winter looked warm and cheerful and Peggy was thinking what a beautiful time she was having, and how comfortable she was and what fun playing little Dutch girl was going to be.

And then, so suddenly that she never knew what had happened, she

"I'd like to have had some of the girls go with me," she thought to herself as she stepped into the wooden shoes. "But I want to play get lost like a real story book person and I'm afraid it would be hard to play if other folks were along."

Down the stairs she went walking as carefully as she could so as not to mar the floors with the wooden shoes. Out in the kitchen she stopped to get an apple and two fresh spice cookies from the lot that were spread so temptingly on the kitchen table. Peggy loved spice cookies and when they were made, Peggy's mother always left them out on the kitchen table to cool and to let Peggy know that she could help herself. Then she went out the back door, crossed lots through her grandmother's yard on the next street and

Still, if she had known that, perhaps she wouldn't have planned to dress up and play go to the forest and then perhaps—but that's getting ahead of the story.

On the very next afternoon Peggy ran skipping home from school as early as she possibly could and, instead of stopping to play with the other girls, she hurried right into her house and up to her room. She took the costume out of the big wooden dress box that rolled under the bed and put it on.

Great Tears Of Fright Ran Down Her Cheeks

must have fallen asleep. School is pretty long that's true, and when the woods are quiet and pretty and a person has just had plenty to eat, it's awfully easy to go to sleep, as you know.

And then, just as suddenly as she had gone to sleep, Peggy woke up—but oh, such a different woods as it was! The fire red sun was all gone. The oak trees that had looked so warm and friendly were dark and solemn looking and the pile of boulders—Peggy looked around for the pile of boulders. They weren't there! Nothing was there as it ought to be! Goodness!

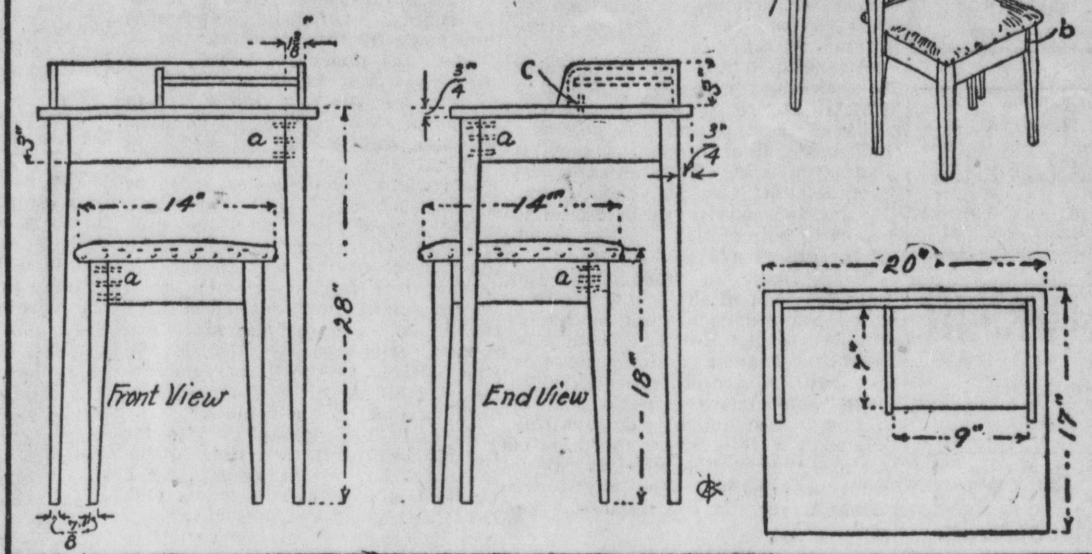

"Somebody's picked me up and carried me away!" thought Peggy to herself.

TELEPHONE TABLE & STOOL

While the telephone is a necessary adjunct to many homes, often it is an annoyance because it is kept upon a table which is used for other purposes. The table and stool shown offer a solution to the trouble, for they are small, easily made, and may be kept in and out of the way corner with the stool pushed underneath when the telephone is not in use; as the table is made with provisions for the directory, pad and pencil, it will be more convenient than if the phone were kept upon a table and these accessories had to be sought among a litter of books and magazines.

The table and stool may be made of oak or any suitable wood, and stained to match the finish of the room or the color of the furniture. The legs of both pieces should be $1\frac{1}{2}$ " square, and the rails of the table should be $1\frac{1}{2}$ " and $15\frac{1}{4}$ " long and 3" wide, while the rails of the stool should be $9\frac{1}{4}$ " long, and the same width. These dimensions make no allowance for a mortise joint for it is intended that the rails shall be joined to the legs by a doweled joint as indicated at a, with at least three dowels in each joint.

In putting the table and stool together care must be used that the top edge of the rails are kept a little above the tops of the legs, say 1-16" or less, otherwise the top of the legs may have to be planed down to the rails, and it is easier to plane the rails to fit the legs. Probably the top will have to be glued up, in which case the joint should be reinforced with dowels. In fitting the rails they should be set back from the face of the legs about 3-16" as shown at b. After the top of the legs and rails are fitted to the underside of the table top they may be placed accurately in their relation to each other and fastened by turning the table bottom up and driving screws slanting through the rails into the under side of the top. In doing this care must be used that the screws are not driven through the top. In preparation for this, $\frac{3}{4}$ " holes should be bored slanting through the top of the rails to receive the screws which are to hold the top in its place. They should be larger than the screws which should be $1\frac{1}{4}$ " or $1\frac{1}{2}$ " No. 10, to allow for the shrinking and swelling of the table top without straining the joint.

After the table top is fastened on it may be smoothed and sandpapered and the backboard and shelf for the directory pad and pencil made and fastened on by dowels as at c. In making the stool the work will be very much the same, excepting that the top may be nailed on, as it may be of common boards for the top will be covered with upholstery.

The top of the stool may be upholstered with upholsterers padding or felt of any kind, and covered with leather or any seat covering desired, fastened to the edge of the top with upholsterers tacks which match the color of the covering.

The table and stool may be stained, shellaced, rubbed lightly with number 0000 sandpaper, and waxed with one of the wax preparations upon the market; this finish replaces the shine of the shellac with a glint which catches and softly reflects the light.

Beside adding to the comfort of the seat the upholstered top of the stool protects the legs of the table when the stool is withdrawn, or pushed under the table again after using.

PEGGY'S VISIT TO THE FOREST

PEGGY was to be the little Dutch girl in a play in her room at school and she had been working hard to have her costume quite perfect. She was to wear a striped skirt, a plain little tight fitting waist, a large bonnet that almost covered her head, and of course—wooden shoes. It had been easy enough to fix up the skirt and waist; the bonnet, though queer, wasn't so very hard to make but the wooden shoes—they had been a real trouble.

"Wooden shoes," her mother exclaimed, "I'd just like to know where you can find wooden shoes! Years ago we used to see them sometimes on the fancy goods counters in the big stores. But not a pair have I seen since the war. I don't believe they ship them over here any more."

"But I have to have wooden shoes," cried Peggy in great distress, "I couldn't be a Dutch girl without them."

And it was right there Uncle Ed came to the rescue. He remembered that one Sunday when he had driven way out west from the city, he had passed through a Dutch settlement. And he thought—of course, he wasn't certain sure but he thought he had seen some youngster walking about in wooden shoes.

"Let's drive out there next Sunday," he suggested to Peggy, "and see for sure. If they have some, maybe they will sell them to us for enough money to buy real for sure American shoes with. At least we can try it."

So they went, Peggy and her uncle, and they had a beautiful time. They found the quaint little Dutch village with its charming little houses and one big sure enough windmill. And better still, they found the little children with the same wooden shoes and one little girl, just Peggy's size exactly, was more than willing to sell her shoes to a little girl whose uncle was as generous as Uncle Ed was that day. So the shoes became Peggy's and her costume was complete.

I wish there was time to tell you all about the play at Peggy's school, and all about the fun they had at rehearsals and all that. But maybe you've been in a play yourself and don't need to be told about that sort of fun.

But anyway, the play was a big success and everybody said Peggy looked exactly like a really truly little Dutch girl with her hair down her back and her wooden shoes and everything and that she acted very, very well.

After she came home from school that afternoon, she put her costume away so carefully in a box in her room and thought she was all through using it for a long time.

That's just how little she knew.

For no matter what she was doing after that, Peggy kept thinking about that costume under the bed and the wooden shoes, and wishing she could dress up again and be a little Dutch girl—even if there wasn't a play.

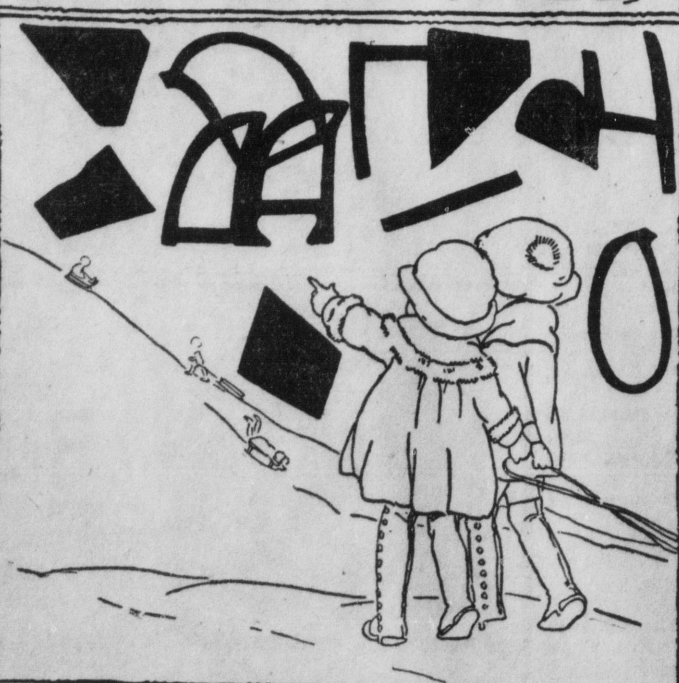

She thought about it so much that one day at noon time, she decided to come home right after school and play that she was a little Dutch girl, and go off in a dark forest.

Right there Peggy was pretty mixed up. Dutch girls live in Holland and there are no dark and gloomy forests in Holland as Peggy would have learned in the very next grade. Holland is a land of sunshine and canals and tiny, beautiful little fields are taken care of better than some of our yards. It is way over in Central Europe that the dark forests grow, quite a way off from Holland.

Still, if she had known that, perhaps she wouldn't have planned to dress up and play go to the forest and then perhaps—but that's getting ahead of the story.

On the very next afternoon Peggy ran skipping home from school as early as she possibly could and, instead of stopping to play with the other girls, she hurried right into her house and up to her room. She took the costume out of the big wooden dress box that rolled under the bed and put it on.

This Little Pig Stayed At Home

Of course you children know about the family of pigs. That were, with one exception, just as happy as the grigs; And that the one exception was the pig that stayed at home. For fear that he might meet somewhere a fairy or a gnome. But do you know as soon as everyone would go away That little pig had nothing but adventures all the day? As soon as mother shut the door amusement he would seek Now guess what's happened! If you can't, I'll tell you all next week.

She looked around to see who might have done such a dreadful thing and there, standing right up in the fork of a tree was a wicked looking little gnome—exactly the sort of a wicked gnome who always made trouble in story books. Peggy had always thought that when she came across this gnome in real life she would stand up and talk to him and tell him he ought to be good. But indeed she didn't do that at all.

She shivered back away from him and great tears of fright ran down her cheeks. She forgot that she was a little Dutch girl and that she was going out for a brave adventure.

But before the gnome had time to tell her what wicked things he meant to do when he carried her off to this strange dark place, Peggy heard the cheerful voice of her father calling, "Peggy! Peggy! Where are you, dear?"

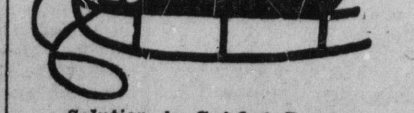

She tried twice to speak, but couldn't say a word. But that didn't matter either for her father spied her and came over to her. With him near, Peggy didn't feel so afraid and when he came close enough to put his arm around her, she said softly, "Father, you tell him he mustn't take me away any more!" It was with some difficulty she made her father understand that she was talking about the gnome in the tree, but as soon as he did understand he turned his flashlight on that wicked gnome—and what do you suppose Peggy saw? Nothing but the old sycamore tree by the creek—bare, white and one of her favorite play spots! After supper Peggy could laugh at the joke on herself.

"Next time I go off to play forest," she said, "I'm going to have some of the grigs go along. Then if I have company, I won't think things look so queer."

"That's a good idea," agreed her mother, "and next time stay awake and play and come home before dark and then you won't see gnomes where trees are."

And Peggy promised to remember.

Frenchman Convinces Ring Followers That He Has Lost None of His Old Powers; Experts Hold Cook Lacking in Ring Generalship

By CHAS. McCANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Europe's Beau Brummel of the ring and the "bush boy" of Australia are scheduled to get together here tonight when Georges Carpentier and George Cook climb through the ropes in Albert Hall. Carpentier will enter the ring a three to one favorite.

The heavyweight champion of Europe and the title holder of Australia will fight twenty rounds to a decision as the feature of a show that will be presented to a packed house by Major Arnold Wilson, premier English promoter.

It will be the first appearance of Carpentier since he was defeated by Jack Dempsey last July and his first battle in two years on British soil. It will also be the debut of Cook in European circles.

Seats sold for from $5 to $50 and every one has been gone since before December 8, the date originally scheduled for the contest. The bout was postponed after Carpentier became ill and said he could not get into condition.

One year ago the Frenchman would have been more than a three to one favorite against any heavy-weight but, Dempsey. However, since his downfall before the champion, ring followers have lost their opinion of his super-human qualities.

Close followers of the ring, who have seen both Carpentier and Cook in action, are of the opinion that the Frenchman is more of a ring general than the Australian, and that he will win because of this fact. Carpentier has shown surprising improvement since his arrival here and many who at first predicted that Cook had an excellent chance of winning have since changed their minds.

Opinion was expressed rather generally at first that Carpentier was morally and physically hurt in his meeting with Dempsey, and that any man near his own size and weight who could get into his with body punches had an excellent chance to beat him, but this has all changed since Carpentier began training here.

Physically, Carpentier has it on the Australian in height and reach and in waist measurement, but otherwise Cook is his superior. The facts of the two principals are as follows:

Carpentier	Age	Weight	Cook	Age	Weight
22	35	174	23	35	187
5 ft. 11 in.	Height	5 ft. 10 1/2 in.	Height

COAST LEAGUE MEN PLAN LONG SEASON

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—Adoption of a schedule for 1922 will be one of the principal matters to be taken up by the directors of the Pacific Coast Baseball league when they meet here next Monday. Last year the schedule ran twenty-six weeks, but it has been promised that in 1922 the season will last twenty-six weeks or more.

Another matter coming up will be the question of accepting the draft system with an increased price of $7500 for ball players called by the major leagues. According to baseball men here, J. Cal Ewing, owner of the Oakland club, is the only owner on the circuit who favors adoption of the draft.

ANAHEIM HIGH GIRLS DEFEAT COLLEGIANS

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—The Anaheim high girls' basketball squad defeated Whittier college at Whittier yesterday, 28 to 15. The Anaheim team holds the championship of the Orange County league.

The lineup:
Anaheim (28) Pos. Whittier (15)
Dugan E. Elmore
Huarty P. Ford
Bailey C. Hanawalt

CRAVATH WILL LEAD HUNTING OUTFIT TO SAN CLEMENTE ISLE

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 12.—C. C. "Garry" Cravath of Laguna Beach, famous baseball player and last year manager of the Salt Lake team, leaves here shortly in his power boat to hunt on San Clemente island and to fish in the waters off its shore. With him he takes Joseph Handy, E. Kenneth Wood, Blaine Fulsom, and Robert Towell of Laguna Beach, and George Spangler of Santa Ana.

The party expects to be gone several days. "Garry" still remains silent as to his plans for the winter and spring and it is a matter of some curiosity with the world of baseball fans to learn the name of the aggregation with which he will make his appearance. Cravath resigned from Salt Lake at the close of the past season.

BANCROFT MAY PLAY WITH TEAM IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Dave Bancroft, captain of the New York Giants, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. Dave cast a reflective glance about town, and then parked his belongings at the Continental hotel. Bancroft, it is understood, will play second base for the All-Star team of major leaguers, which will appear here soon.

TED THYE LOSES IN HANDICAP MAT BOUT

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 12.—Carl Nelson of Dayton last night won the decision over Ted Thye of Portland in a wrestling bout. Thye failing to throw Nelson twice in 75 minutes as agreed. Thye threw Nelson in 58 minutes with a double wristlock and leg scissors. In the second attempt Nelson held Thye immovable with a body scissors and head lock for the last five minutes.

CLEVELANDERS WANT RED SOX FRANCHISE

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 12.—A syndicate of Clevelanders are said to be in the market for the Boston American League baseball club. Sam Dutsch, prominent local sportsman, left here yesterday for New York to confer with Harry Frazee of the Red Sox. Matt J. Hinkel, well known referee and fight promoter, who made an effort to purchase the club several years ago, also is said to be one of the syndicate.

PECKINPAUGH WILL NOT BOSS SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Roger Peckinpaugh "positively will not be made manager" of the Senators in 1922, Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club of the American League, declared last night. Selection of manager for the club, it was intimated, probably will be announced late this week.

WRESTLING GAME GIVEN DEATH BLOW IN N. Y. UNDER COMMISSION RULING

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Wrestling has been dumped for one bad fall after another since boxing came back in New York.

Before the state legislature put the Walker bill on the books, the fight bugs had to use the tube over to Jersey to see the boys using the gloves and during that period, the "rasslers" went big in Manhattan and made large money.

Then came the boxing law, which in effect ran the rasslers to the bush league territory, where they could work just as much, but for not nearly so much.

Wrestling still has a large following in New York, despite the general impression that it is a fake game operated by a union of hippodrome artists. Why New Yorkers continue to pack the armories at wrestling matches can be explained perhaps by referring to the two six-day bike races annually that are dollar harvests for the promoters.

After boxing had been legalized, "Albany" refused to allow the use of state armories for boxing or wrestling and then the "rasslers" had no place to work outside of Madison Square Garden, where Jack Curley couldn't get in behind a battalion of shock troops.

Finally Tex Rickard decided that he would try his hand at the mat game. His first show between Pesek and Pletina resulted in a big scandal in which it was breezed around that the alleged head of the trust, sent Pesek in to ruin the show by foul tactics.

Rickard refused to quit and arranged a Zbyszko-Lewis match for the world's championship.

Early in the match, Zbyszko was slapped on the back by the referee and told that he had won the first fall. The champion and Lewis both wanted to know—"How come?" The official then told them that rolling and flying falls were recognized by the commission.

Rickard went after a Stecher-Caddock match and both told him they'd push plows for the rest of their days before they'd agree to anything but a pin fall. Other prominent grapplers are taking the same stand. The result is there is no wrestling in the big town.

The boxing commission, which also has charge of wrestling, says the rolling fall is the great blow against crooked wrestling and the honest wrestlers who always fight for the sanctity of the game, claim it is the one thing that would make it easy to fake a match.

The bone crushers, of course, can keep on doing their stuff out around the less beaten paths, but they can't get the money for six matches that they could get for a couple of hours toil in New York.

LINCOLN TEAM COPS ELEMENTARY HONORS

Team	Pld.	W.	L.	Pct.
Lincoln	4	4	0	1.000
Franklin	5	4	1	.200
Jefferson	4	2	2	.500
Spurgeon	5	2	3	.400
Roosevelt	5	1	4	.200
McKinley	5	1	4	.200

Although one postponed baseball game between Lincoln and Jefferson schools is yet to be played, the former school holds the championship of the elementary league, as a result of the games played last evening. Franklin defeated Spurgeon on Spurgeon's grounds, by a score of 22 to 13. It was a well played and interesting game, although the Franklin boys were a little heavier with the bat.

McKinley defeated Roosevelt on their own grounds. A rally in the next to the last inning won this game, at which time five points were piled up. The score was 9 to 10.

STANFORD TO HAVE NOTED GRID COACH

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 12.—Glen Warner, famous football mentor of the University of Pittsburgh, is due here soon to look over the situation in regard to handling football for Stanford university, it was learned today.

Warner, who thrilled the sporting world with the teams he turned out at Carlisle some years ago, will probably sign a contract to coach Stanford, beginning in 1924, upon his arrival here.

He still has two years to stay at Pittsburgh, according to his contract, though it is reported that he is very anxious to come to the Coast at as early a date as possible.

POSTMAN'S SKULL IS FRACTURED BY THUG

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 12.—Herman Williams, a rural mail carrier, was attacked by a highwayman yesterday. He was knocked down with a club, and as he fell reached for his pistol. The highwayman fled and Williams went to a nearby house, where he collapsed. Physicians said his skull was fractured. Approximately $2000 is said to have been included in the mail Williams carried.

COUNTY FIVES READY FOR FRIDAY BATTLES

Poly Squad to Invade Huntington Beach In Second League Clash

TOMORROW'S GAMES
Santa Ana at Huntington Beach.
Fullerton at San Juan Capistrano.
Orange at Whittier.
Anaheim at Garden Grove.

Further developments in the Orange county high school basketball situation are expected to follow the four contests tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Morrison's first and second teams are scheduled to visit Huntington Beach, there to clash with Ray Walker's oil well diggers. While the local team has had success so far, losing only to Chaffey junior college, the Huntington Beach team is not regarded as a cinch, and over-confidence is not a fault with the Poly gridsters.

Fullerton will visit the Mission town for a contest. Predictions are scarce on this game. Fullerton defeated Orange in a closely contested game, while several other victories are chalked up in their column. San Juan Capistrano has not met with success this season, falling before Tustin twice, and before the Poly gridsters last Friday in a league contest. However, the Capistranoans are planning determined opposition, and Coach Lewis' men have no preconceived opinions on the outcome of the game.

Coach H. M. Davis' Orange high school five is proving the surprise of the season. The lads display a brand of teamwork which is unexcelled, and they possess the necessary fight, according to indications in games already played. The exhibition against Fullerton in the first league game of the season was satisfying, and the victory over Sweetwater high school, National City champions of San Diego county league was a surprise even to the most sanguine. Whittier, Orange's opponent tomorrow, went down to defeat before Tustin at Whittier last week.

Only the Anaheim second team will make the trip to Garden Grove, the latter school being without a varsity. Tustin drew a bye in the schedule, but efforts were being made to arrange a game with Hemet high school at Hemet tomorrow afternoon.

DUCK SEASON COMES TO END ON SUNDAY

Santa Ana nimrods are expected to make a great raid on Orange county blinds next Saturday and Sunday for the final drive on ducks for the present season, which closes Sunday night. Many hunters were under the impression that the season would not end until Monday, but according to Victor Walker, the fish and game commissioner has sent out notices announcing Sunday as the last day of the season.

OROVILLE JAPANESE HANGS SELF IN CABIN

OROVILLE, Jan. 12.—K. Nakamori, Japanese, age 47, committed suicide last Saturday by hanging himself from a rafter in his cabin at the Mount Ida Orchards, near Oroville. The Japanese used a heavy strip of flannel cloth for a hang rope. He left a note in which he recited his sufferings from an illness from which he did not expect to recover. The body will be shipped to Sacramento for cremation.

LOCAL COLLEGIANS TO PLAY SAN DIEGO FIVE FRIDAY NIGHT

In the first league game of the season, Santa Ana Junior college will meet San Diego Junior college on the Y. M. C. A. floor at San Diego, next Friday evening.

The local junior college team has not been sized up by the fans, who have never seen it in action, but Coach Edward J. Hummel has been laboring steadily to produce a championship team, and has hopes of starting the season with a victory over San Diego.

Hummel's team consists of Bigelow, (captain), forward; Thomson, forward; Carl, center; Dresser, guard; Wulff, guard. Manager Joe Peterson and Thatcher are going to make the trip as subs.

According to information reaching here, La Verne college is being considered to replace Santa Barbara junior college in the league.

POLY QUINTET WILL LOSE VALUABLE MEN

Basketball at Poly high school sustained a severe blow when it was announced that three varsity players will be ineligible after the end of the present semester, February 1.

Athletes must have limited their attendance at high school to eight semesters, according to a ruling of the California Interscholastic federation. The ineligible are those who will have completed the maximum number at the end of the present term.

Newell (Jeff) Cravath, guard is the first of the unfortunates. Newton Stark, center, rated as the best all-around man on the team, makes his exit from high school basketball affairs at the same time. Lloyd Whitlock, a newcomer at Poly, had spent three years at high school in Springfield, Ill., and will not be able to play center with the Poly five.

The loss of the last two men mentioned is an especially hard blow to the Poly team, leaving the pivotal position to Loraine Bowe, who is in his second year at high school.

Dietrick, formerly of Sacramento, is relied upon to fill the vacancy made by the loss of Cravath. Messinger, formerly of Kansas, has played basketball for three years before coming here.

Manager Cravath has arranged a practice game with Anaheim to be played here next Tuesday. A week from Friday will witness the third league game of the year, this being played with Whittier.

BOATS BUCK ICE IN SEARCH OF AMERICAN

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 12.—Ice-breaking tugboats, acting on instructions from Governor J. A. O. Preus of Minnesota, will take up the search for James Maher, Minnesota state commissioner at Grand Portage, Minn., missing in Lake Superior since he left Cloud bay December 29.

"Old Plummer," a trapper, who was with James Maher on the first part of the motor boat trip that ended in Maher's disappearance, declared today he believed Maher was at the bottom of the lake. Maher, he said, had only enough provisions for a couple of meals on board the boat in which he planned to navigate the passage through dangerous channels from Cloud bay to Port Arthur, sixty miles distant.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT

The grand jury is to be commended upon the tone of its report. The aim of the grand jury, evidently, was to build up, not to tear down. Occasionally a grand jury is controlled by jurors who seem to feel that their brief period of authority is entirely wasted unless they have "skinned 'em alive."

It appears that this grand jury went into the courthouse somewhat as though it was a committee of the taxpayers, and took the attitude throughout that it was there to hear as well as to be heard. Frequent conferences with public officials brought forth points of view, and the spirit of co-operation that was exhibited by the grand jurors resulted in getting down to satisfactory understandings in every controversy and investigation that arose. It is stated authoritatively that in a number of matters the grand jurors urged that minor changes be made in methods of doing things. In some instances the grand jurors, after talking the matters over with the officials, found the grand jurors' suggestions untenable. In other instances, instead of bringing in a resounding report whacking somebody just for the satisfaction of hearing the whack, the grand jurors convinced the officials that their views were correct and secured assurance that changes would be made in accordance with the views of the grand jury.

Orange county grand juries in general have endeavored to make their efforts worth while. One of them, some two or three years ago, postponed its adjournment for two months in order that it might reconvene at the end of that period and ask the question, "Why haven't our recommendations been carried out?" And in their efforts to accomplish results, grand juries have found Orange county's officials uniformly courteous and desirous to give whatever information has been requested, and uniformly willing to co-operate in the betterment of the public service.

AVOID FRIGHTFULNESS

"To discourage war, make it fearful," says Arthur Brisbane, the Hearst editor, arguing for the retention of poison gas.

That is exactly the way "war experts" argued before the World War; and the more fearful the war became, the more it spread. If it had lasted much longer, almost every nation on earth would have got into it, and everyone of them would have resorted to the deadliest weapons available. For "fearfulness" is catching, as fear is. Another such competition in slaughter, and there may be nothing left of civilization.

If one nation, and an honest nation, had a monopoly of fearfulness, it might work. But the last war proved that every time an aggressor or defender resorts to a new and more effective weapon, the enemy adopts it immediately. It was so with poison gas and tanks and every other innovation of importance. These modern war weapons are scientific, and no nation has a monopoly of scientific knowledge. Each type of fearfulness, therefore, is bound to be copied and multiplied in any war that develops hereafter.

Something may be done to limit the frightfulness by general agreements outlawing poison gas, submarines and other deadly and cowardly killing devices. More may be accomplished by nations deliberately cultivating friendship with each other and establishing the means of frequent conference and continuous co-operation.

COMING SHOE STYLES

A slow battle appears to be on between the fashionable and the orthopedic shoe. At present the latter is distinctly gaining ground. Boot and shoe authorities say that common sense as to footwear has been growing in the public mind at a steadily increasing rate.

Somewhat the notion has become current that feet were made to walk with rather than on; that the foot cannot function properly if it is restricted or restrained by ill-fitting shoes; that shoes correctly constructed are not merely coverings for the foot but aids to it in its business of walking; and that there must be some relaxation between the shape and flexibility of the foot and the shape and flexibility of the shoe.

Common sense will have to develop a good deal further before the knockout blow is dealt the shoe of fashion, built merely to please perverted taste. Yet, as it becomes known that there are shoes which can be worn without causing aching feet, bunions, callouses, corns, ingrowing nails or arch troubles, those shoes are likely to become fashionable themselves. Then the victory will be assured.

THE SIZE OF TROTSKY'S ARMY

That red-blooded Russian, Leon Trotsky, minister of war for the Soviet government, boasts that he has an army of 1,050,000 men in the field and needs more.

No doubt Russia now has the largest army maintained by any nation in the world, with France coming second. And what that army is for is a subject for curious inquiry. Trotsky insists that it is for defense. That, however, is what war ministers always say. Self-defense is a broad and elastic term, which was used glibly enough by Germany and is now being rather over-used by France.

It hardly seems possible that France and Russia consider it necessary to arm against each other. There are some hard feelings, but Germany lies between them. As for Russia's little neighbors to the west, they are incapable of serious menace.

As far as Americans can see, Russia's chief need in the way of defense is defense against such militarism as Trotsky and Lenin have inaugurated. If they disbanded that big army and put the soldiers to work, nobody would bother them.

CHILD LABOR IN MOVIES

Of the 1,500 children said to be annually employed in the production of motion pictures at

Los Angeles, the 225 studied by a sociology authority of the University of Southern California may be considered representative.

California has a state compulsory law requiring every child between 8 and 16 years of age to spend a minimum of four hours a day in school. It is possible to substitute private tutors for class-room attendance, and that is what is usually done in the case of the little movie actors. Los Angeles schools furnish the tutors, so that the quality of instruction is insured. But that is scarcely sufficient in view of other conditions. The teacher is paid by the company, and the child pupil is at the call of the picture producer even during study hours. Sometimes a school room is provided; sometimes it is only a corner of the studio or an automobile.

Teachers who were questioned felt that the children became nervous, sophisticated and blasé, inattentive, unreasonably mature, erratic, unable to apply themselves to their lessons. Of one child a teacher said her screen work changed her "from a sweet little girl to one rather bold and disorderly."

The two most objectionable features in the estimation of the investigator were the nature of the adult environment and the make-believe world in which the children live. Yet he does not blame individual motion picture producers. Rather, he says that the fault lies in a "combination of the impersonal attitude of modern business and the apparent need of employing children under questionable circumstances."

It is a problem needing to be solved along with other forms of child labor.

The Chicago Enterprise condenses a bit of philosophy into a neat three lines and a half as follows: "All who are wondering how the new year will treat them can rest assured that it will do as well by them as they do by it."

Cost of Heavy Traffic

San Diego Union

The recent storm-inflicted considerable damage upon the county roads, as was to be expected. The taxpayers, of course, will have to pay for repairing these highways. That is also expected. It develops, however, that much of the damage could have been obviated if the roads originally had been constructed to carry heavy automobile trucking. At the present time in some sections of the country the roads are in such condition that it is impossible to drive the trucks over them. It is thus demonstrated that if the truck companies desire to conduct their business uninterruptedly they must either haul lighter loads or pay more money for road construction firm enough to carry the loads.

Certainly there is no justification in compelling the general taxpayers of the county to build and maintain highways for the use of vehicles that destroy the roads. The general public pays adequately for its use of these roads; but the truck companies pay no more, although they get more use and profit from the convenience thus afforded.

The truck companies are in competition with the railroads, with the advantage that, while the railroads must repair all damage at their own expense, the truck companies get their repairs without expense to themselves.

It would seem to be a sort of retribution, therefore, on the truck owners that they are now suffering the loss of interrupted traffic owing in great measure to the fact that they persisted in carrying too heavy loads, and contributed nothing to the upkeep of the roads for such use.

Bettering of Conditions

Pasadena Star-News

The New Year begins with many strong evidences of gradual, but sure, betterment in world conditions. This is true as to prospects for the fostering of peace; it is true as to economic outlook; and it is true as to political and social stability.

In the promotion of peace, the Arms Conference has accomplished the truly remarkable and the epochal. Its naval holiday; its four-power agreement as to Pacific problems; its humanitarian limitations on submarine warfare and its abolishment of the use of poison gas in war, constitute a series of advanced achievements for the conservation of peace and humanity without parallel in human history.

Contemporaneously, comes the settlement of the long-standing controversies between England and Ireland which ultimately should bind them more closely than ever, in peaceful co-operation.

From the meeting of the Allied Supreme Council at Cannes probably will come tangible action bringing Great Britain and France into better understanding and preparing the way for economic restoration in Europe, and the international economic conference, to assemble in Geneva early in March, is expected to devise ways and means to put Europe on its economic feet.

On this western hemisphere peace reigns. Mexico's pacification, under the administration of President Obregon, seems to be complete. The little revolutionary flurry in Central America soon was over. And South America, while emitting an occasional snarl, is maintaining peace.

Here in the United States economic readjustment is proceeding and normal basis is being approached. The people are cheerful and confident and on all hands a better year in business and industry is expected.

Old Mother Earth is assuming a more cheerful aspect, and her face is lighted anew with the sunshine of hope and confidence. Optimism is coming into its harvest everywhere.

A Resolution for Everybody

Orange Judd Farmer

How is this suggestion for a resolution to be adopted by everybody this year?

"Resolved, That in the year 1922 I will think things out."

"That I will be wise enough to withhold judgment until I have all of the facts, and that I will be sure the facts are genuine."

"That I will not permit my solid judgment to be swayed by any personal feelings, and that I will spurn every effort of self-seekers to gain my favor by attempting to arouse my prejudices."

"That I will do my own thinking and not permit myself to be stampeded into any opinion, by any one, on any pretext whatsoever."

"And so God giving me courage, I will be a solid American citizen, unafraid, going forward with faith, believing in my country and my fellow men, doing unto others as I would have others do unto me."

The Water-Hole

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

THAT WHICH YOU DON'T QUITE GET

Walt Whitman, in writing of Lincoln's face, has this to say: "None of the artists or pictures has caught the deep though subtle and indirect expression of this man's face. There is something else there."

The artist is great for what he conceals from you, but which you applaud!

We strive for ideals beyond us. We are thrilled by what we gain from toil and long years of waiting and patience—but that which we receive is not the biggest thing that makes our heart warm and our face to smile. It's that which we don't quite get.

The lover clothes his sweetheart with perfected beauty. Her merest expression to him is sweeter than the smoothest melody in his ears. If he could understand her and she would solve herself to him in all that she is, the castle in which he has found her would crash to earth.

It's the something else that is there in those we love that binds us to them.

Outside my bedroom window a branch from a tall tree waves to me every morning. On this branch lately I have watched a gray bird sing marvelous songs. Its little throat vibrates with happy melodies. And though it sits but a few feet from my gaze, still it does not fear but goes through its concert with evident pride and pleasure. But it's what that bird thinks of me—a funny looking human being—that I would like to know.

The mystery of not knowing—it is this that drives us all on—and on—and on.

That which you don't quite get is what makes you think, and work, and bear. Spurred by its fascination, you climb over your failures and disappointments and FEEL that you are winning anyway. As you are!

The best that is within us must always express—without explaining the secrets within our personalities.

In the world around us, dear—
After all to be living,
Now, this moment, and here!
What if the dreams do shatter,
What if the dust does rise;
What if the small things matter,
What if the spirit cries!
Something in all makes even
The joy and the sadness true;
Storms may shadow our heaven,
But skies next day are blue.
Just to be a part of the effort,
A seed in the growth of time,
A bubble of bloom in the weather,
A breath of the morning's time;
God, it is worth the anguish
Just to be living and part Of the beautiful world whose singing
Is a song in the heart!

Thicker Than Water

When the Pacific squadron of the United States navy was in Chinese waters about 1852 or '53, there occurred an attack by British on the Chinese forts at the mouth of the Pei Ho river. The English vessels were very badly cut up and it appeared that certain destruction must be their lot.

In this emergency Commodore Josiah Tatnall of the United States navy, had several boats lowered and rowed to the assistance of the English, and a cable being fastened to these boats, they were towed out of range of cannon fire.

Commodore Josiah Tatnall used this immortal phrase in giving his reason for this act: "Blood is thicker than water," which has become world famous and is used by hundreds in this and the old countries.

The commodore was awarded a sword by the state of Georgia for his bravery in rescuing the boats of a friendly nation and while it might not have been strictly neutral, yet so far as is known, the United States government never repudiated him in any way for his action.

The first college for women in Arkansas, Fayette Female Seminary, was started in 1829 by Miss Sophia Sawyer, a native of Pittsburgh, Mass.

The World a Good Deal Kinder

Stockton Record

"Communism in Russia is a failure because the system fails to take into consideration the characteristics of human nature which make a man work best for his family's advancement." So declared W. Palmer Fuller, former head of the American relief in Poland. "Production has ceased," he says, "because the workman now wants the fruits of his individual labor."

It is a long, lone time since Belamy wrote his book, "Looking Backward," which was his dream of a world in which one for all and all for one should prevail. It would have astonished Belamy if he could have looked forward to the reign of terror that swept Russia when an attempt was made to put this altruistic doctrine into practice. And now we are told by this returned American that the failure is realized by Lenin and the world is now witnessing Russia being led back to the family of nations by the same leaders who took it away when Bolshevism swept over the domain of the czar.

But the spirit of brotherhood is growing throughout the world, nevertheless. It is not and never could be ushered in with force, hatefulness, bombs. But the entire attitude of the human family one toward another becomes each year a little nearer to the ideal set by the Prince of Peace.

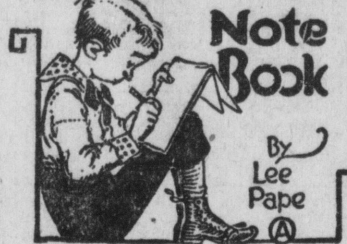

As a familiar instance, who ever heard even ten years ago of men, all the business and professional and other busy men of the town, giving their time for weeks together to the various drives organized to take care of the weak, the poor, the sick? Woman's work, that used to be considered, church work, perhaps, but men as a whole were too busy looking after their own to organize to do battle for others.

The spirit of kindness extends to our national and international life. Disciples of the reign of force and destruction have confessed that they were sent over from Russia to lay bombs in the crowded streets of an American city for the express purpose of killing an American of prominence because he is wealthy. It is monstrous, diabolical. But we feed the children of these men and women who would destroy us. They do not care how many innocent Americans are killed with their bombs. We do not ask whose innocent children are fed with American food.

The whole attitude of the world is slowly changing with a little less of selfishness, a little more of kindness one to another and a broader conception of what is due others in personal relations, business, civic and world affairs.

I was setting on Mary Watkinses front steps tawking to her, and so was Puds Simkins, and I was making her luff and Puds wasent, and Puds sed, Wats you think, Mary, I dreamed about you last nite, I dreamed you was a angel.

O Puds how perfectly lovely, sed Mary Watkins.

Me thinking, Heck, darn him. And I sed, Well I wouldnt want anybody to dream I was a angel. If you ever saw angels in pictures you know how they go erround, dont you? I sed.

Meaning with nothing on but wings, and Mary Watkins sed, Puds Simkins, Im going rite in the house. Wich she started to do, and Puds sed, Hay, wait a minnit, hay, he's crazy, I didnt dream you looked like the rest of the angels, I dreamt you was all dressed up in a long fur coat and everything.

Thats diffrent, thats all rite, sed Mary Watkins setting down agen, I sed, Well then how did he and you get a angel if you wasent dressed like a angel?

Yes, how could you tell I was a angel? sed Mary Watkins starting to get up agen.

On account of your bewtiffil face, I knew rite away nobody but a angel could have such a bewtiffil face, you couldnt fool me, sed Puds.

O Puds wat a nice dream, sed Mary Watkins staying down.

Me thinking, Aw heck, darn that guy.

And Mary Watkins kepp on looking at Puds as if she thawt he was about twice as wonderfull as me, and pritty soon I got up and went home diskusted.

SOMETHING ABOUT HOW TO KEEP WELL

VITAMINES IN DIET

Much is said these days about the importance of vitamins in the normal healthy diet. Few know what vitamins are or what they do.

Experiments have readily proved that no animal can live upon a mixture of pure protein fats and carbohydrates nor, even when the necessary salts are carefully added, can the animal flourish.

Three active substances which must be present to allow animal growth to flourish have been called vitamins. They are known as the fat soluble vitamins and carbohydrates.

The presence of all three of these classes of vitamins is essential to bodily well being and even though the symptoms of complete vitamin starvation may not be present, many vague symptoms of malnutrition often may be due to an insufficiency of vitamins.

The advance of civilization has given us many refined foods which for the most part have lost their vitamins. Such common foods as flour, sugar, rice, macaroni, vegetables, fruits, and plain meats and fish are much deficient in vitamins.

The good thing about vitamins, however, is that comparatively small amounts are required to supply the requisite amount in the average diet.

All the essential vitamins are to be found in fresh milk, eggs, coarse flours, most vegetables and fruits, especially tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, cauliflower and other leafy vegetables, and in peas and beans, grapes and other fruit.

Bear Stories for Bedtime

CHAPTER 240

TOMMY SMITH UP A TREE

By Harvey Elliott

Tommy Smith had to climb a tree. Yes, sir, and it wasn't Billy Bear that made him climb it, either. Billy Bear is not guilty of all the mischief that goes on in the Green Forest—not by any means.

Now I want to tell you who it was that chased Tommy up a tree. Snarlle Wolf is a fellow you have heard about before. He has had a place in several of our stories already. But Snarlle is a great leader among the Wolf tribe. He is the head of a pack that sometimes makes the woods ring with their howling.

Tommy Smith was chopping wood one evening late in the fall, and was about a mile from home. As he came out to the road with his axe on his way home he heard a wild yelping behind him. It was Snarlle the Wolf and five others and they seemed to be following Tommy's tracks.

Tommy made for a suitable tree and thought he would climb it for safety. Hardly had he swung up over a limb when here came those hungry wolves snapping and growling at his heels.

Tommy Smith was mighty glad that wolves couldn't climb trees. He felt safe where he was, but he didn't want to have to roost on that limb all night.

Those wolves were so angry that they would bite the bark off of the tree. They chewed Tommy's axe handle till they had it all broken into shivers. It was now dark, and Tommy began to think he would have to stay there all night.

The Wolves glared up at him with eyes that looked like coals of fire. Snarlle tried to scare Tommy by making him believe that he was going to climb the tree. He would go way back and get a good start and then run as hard as he could and jump up the trunk of the tree as far as he could reach. Then the other Wolves would do the same thing, but of course none of them could get very far up and Tommy knew it.

Tommy was getting awfully homesick and hungry, but he wasn't going to come down into that bunch if he had to stay there a week. After the siege had lasted for about two hours something else happened which let Tommy come down off his perch.

The Wolves began quarreling among themselves. The other five seemed to turn on Snarlle. Woods-men tell us that when a pack of wolves fall in the thing they start out to do they will often turn on their leader and blame him for leading them astray.

So the pack went off snapping and growling among themselves. Tommy waited till he heard their yelping my wayed from the forest before he ventured to climb down and run for home. He was scared all the way home lest they might get him again. But they were so busy fighting among themselves that they seemed to forget all about him.

THEORY EXPLODED

"Don't you know," asked the welfare worker with severity, "that it is unhealthy to keep your hogs so close to the house?"

"Unhealthy!" exploded the investigated person. "Unhealthy me eye! There's that bunch o' pigs been raised right there in that there pen, within ten foot o' th' kitchen. They're two years old now. Never been anywhere in their lives. And did you ever see anything healthier than they are?"

"Do you think we are getting back to the good old days?"

"There isn't any doubt of it," replied Senator Sorghum. "People are going into print with perfect confidence with the same old anecdotes that made me laugh in early childhood."—Washington Star.
